Assembly Leaders Name Committees At Session Today

Legislature Will Begin Grind of Real Work With Naming of Standing Committees.

GOVERNOR TO GIVE MESSAGE TUESDAY

New Agricultural Commissioner Announces Employees To Supplant Department Staff.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Georgia's new governmental administration headed by a new governor, and with its legislature just beginning its first biennial session will get down to real business Monday when the permanent standing committees of the two branches will be named and the governor prepares to announce his policies in his first address to the assembly in joint session Tuesday.

In the senate the floor leader will be State Senator Shelby Myrick, of the first district who will be appointed by President Ed B. Dykes as vice chairman of the rules committee, it was learned from semi-official sources Sunday. The powerful senate finance committee will be headed by Senator Walter C. Hendrix, of Fulton county and the equally powerful appropriations committee will be headed by Senator E. D. Rivers, of the sixth district, as chairmen.

Both Speaker Richard B. Russell, Jr., of the house and President Dykes, of the senate, will be ready to announce their committee appointments Monday, according to information obtained Sunday, although it is possible that President Dykes may have to wait until Tuesday to make public his complete list. Speaker Russell has been working on his committees ever since he was elected Wednesday, and will in all probability have the complete list ready for announcement when the session opens this morning.

Expect Flood of Bills.

It is expected that a flood of bills will deluge the senate and house during the week. One of the features of the program Monday will be the introduction of a series of bills for the protection of children in Georgia, which are designed to put into effect the most modern and approved methods, used with marked success by other states in taking care of underprivileged persons. Virtually all of these bills have been studied by leading members of the two branches and they have met with general approval.

One of the biggest fights of the legislative session will develop over he proposed reorganization of the state highway department. One bill covering one phase of this plan has been introduced in the senate by Senator A. H. Thompson, of Troup county. His bill relates largely to the road building program. Other bills will provide that the membership of the board be changed from three members, as at present, to 12 members, one for each congressional district.

Measures also will be introduced during the week which will provide important changes in the state department of agriculture. One of this series of bills will cut down the number of oil inspectors to 10. Another measure will repeal the present law under which the state board of entomology operates and will provide a new plan of operation. A third bill will provide for an entirely new method in fertilizer analyses.

Plans for expansion of the state health department and broadening the scope of its work, as well as for additional facilities at the state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto, will be embodied in a series of bills to be presented this week.

Other miscellaneous bills proposed include a bill to revise and limit costs collected in municipal courts of the state; a similaclir bill covering justice of the peace courts; a bill cutting down the membership of the state public service commission from five to three members; several bills providing for revision of the laws under which the state banking department operates; several bills revising the laws providing for the operation of small loan banks (anti-loan shark bills); a bill repealing the law which guarantees to public utility companies a return of 8 per cent on the property devoted to

4 SISTERS DROWN IN FLORIDA LAKE AS BOAT CAPSIZES

Jacksonville, Fla., June 26.—(AP)—Four sisters were drowned today in Clearwater lake, near here, when the boat in which they were riding was overturned.

The dead are Mrs. Frances Norton, 18; Mary Silcox, 14; Dora Silcox, 12; Emma Silcox, 10.

The drowning occurred, according to information received by local authorities, when the "girls rocked the boat" while in the middle of the lake.

The victims were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Silcox, of Jacksonville Heights, a suburb.

BRITAIN AND U. S. ARE FACING CRISIS AT NAVAL PARLEY

Two Greatest Powers of World Soon May Be Plunged Into Great Building Program.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, June 26. — (United News.)—Great Britain and the United States apparently are approaching a momentous decision of gravest world importance at Geneva.

Stripped of frills, the issue at Geneva is:

Shall Great Britain and the United States recognize each other as naval equals, or shall they engage in a race for naval supremacy?

The supplementary arms conference, which began in an atmosphere of general indifference, has suddenly projected itself as a possible crossroads of history where the two leading powers of the world will decide whether to continue the friendly cooperation which has been regarded as one of the great forces for world peace, or whether they shall, with jealous eyes on each other, plunge into a costly race for naval supremacy with all of the grave consequences that this might mean in future years.

The Washington arms conference of 1921-22 definitely wiped the menace of war from the face of the Pacific. In that conference the United States and Great Britain worked side by side and agreed to recognize each other as equals in adopting the 5-5-3 ratio for capital battleships. The words of Balfour at that conference gave the United States to understand that Great Britain regarded this equality as proper not only for capital ships but for all auxiliary naval craft—that the two powers should accept each other as equals, not only as respects battleships, but total naval power.

President's Course.

Because of objections on other powers, it was not possible to apply this 5-5-3 ratio to cruisers, destroyers and submarines. So President Coolidge recently suggested the Geneva arms conference in order to complete this work.

In his memorandum to foreign governments proposing the conference, Coolidge said:

"Although hesitating at this time to put forward rigid proposals as regards the ratios of naval strength to be maintained by the different powers, the American government, for its part, is disposed to accept, in regard

Pola's Hubby Sues To Prove He Is Prince

Serge Mdivani To Start $100,000 Action Against Magazine.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Hollywood, Calif., June 26.—Regardless of challenges echoed by Russian czarist generals, childhood acquaintances in the Georgian caucus, and magazine writers of America, Serge Mdivani, who is Pola Negri's new husband, thinks enough of his chances of proving himself a prince to go to court for $100,000.

"It will be for the courts of America to decide whether I have the right to the title." Pola's 27-year-old consort declared between sips of tea and bites of dainty sandwiches, on the sea front veranda of Pola's Santa Monica Beach home.

"I sent instructions by air mail yesterday to Attorney William Chadbourne, of Chadbourne, Hunt Jaeckel and Brown, 168 Broadway, New York City, directing that suit be filed demanding $100,000 for detractions printed in Photoplay Magazine. The magazine and James Quirk, an editor, called my title a fake and charged me with falsehood.

"My answer to this has been to send my genealogical papers, proofs from the Georgian ambassador in Paris, and other documents to my attorney. For myself, I do not care about the title of price, although I certainly have the right to bear it. I never employed the title in this country. My reason for bringing suit is because I am president of the Georgian Exploration company, dealing chiefly in oil lands and oil leases, with offices in New York and Paris and it is a business necessity for a man to clear himself of the word that he is an imposter."

INCOME TAXES SHOW INCREASE DESPITE CUTS

Gain of $30,289,793 Is Reported in Total Levy Assessed in United States.

MORE MONEY PAID BY CORPORATIONS

Decrease Is Shown in Number of Returns Made and Also in Total Net Income.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, June 26.—Substantial increases in revenue from taxes on individual and corporation earnings during the calendar year of 1926, in spite of rate reductions and new exemptions allowed in the 1926 revenue act under which the returns were filed are reported in statistics of income made public by the bureau of internal revenue today.

The bureau's analysis shows that although as a result of increased personal exemptions, granted in the 1926 act, both the number of individual returns and the total net income reported were greatly reduced, there was an increase of 30,289,793, or 4.3 per cent in the total tax assessed. The number of returns filed was 4,711,051, the aggregate net income reported was $21,894,576,403 and the net tax was $734,555,183.

As compared with the returns filed for the calendar year, 1924, the returns for 1925 show a decrease in number of 3,198,737, or 43.40 per cent and a decrease in the total net income of $3,761,577,051, or 14.66 per cent. The average net income in 1925 was $5,249.16, the average amount of tax was $176.11, and the average tax rate was $3.35, as compared to the preceding year when the average net income was $3,481.26, the average amount of tax $95.56 and the average tax rate 2.74 per cent.

Corporations.

The number of corporations filing income tax returns was 430,072, of which 252,334 reported net income amounting to $9,583,683,697 on which they were to pay taxes aggregating $1,170,331,206. For the preceding calendar year, the number of corporations was 417,421 of which 236,380 reported net income aggregating $7,586,652,202 on which the taxes were fixed at $891,549,546.

As indicated in a preliminary statement several months ago, today's report showed that 207 persons paid taxes on incomes of $1,000,000 or more during 1925.

Several persons reported incomes of more than $5,000,000 during the year; nine reported incomes between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000; fifteen reported incomes between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000; twenty-nine, between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000; forty-three, between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, and 104 between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Illinois, with a total individual and corporation income of $2,827,268,695 for 1925 on which taxes aggregating $170,483,863 were levied—8.95 per cent of the total tax reported in the country—ranks third among the states. New York with a combined individual and corporation income of $7,501,647,518 on which $575,136,983, or 30.20 per cent of the total net tax was reported, heads the list.

Pennsylvania Second.

Pennsylvania is second with individual and corporation incomes totaling $2,922,425,335 and taxes of $184,571,456, 9.69 per cent of the net tax for the country.

California is fourth in the list with a combined income of $1,908,245,741 and taxes of $87,660,839, or 4.6 per cent of the total taxes paid.

MUNICIPAL OPERA OFFERS 'RED MILL'

Comedy To Feature Second Week of Current Season of Light Opera at Erlanger.

Charming comedy, packed full of catchy melodies, will delight theatergoers this week at the Erlanger theater in the presentation of "The Red Mill," Victor Herbert's classic comic opera, by the Municipal Opera association.

"The Red Mill" should prove even more popular than "The Pink Lady," last week's offering in the light opera series, for it is chockful of laughs from start to finish, and there are little sentimental arias that tickle the heart strings.

Sudwarth Frasier, tenor, will have a real opportunity for a hit in "The Red Mill," while Louis Templeman also has a fine chance to please with his singing. Although the score calls mostly for singing by the male members of the cast, Miss Claire Madjette will be seen throughout the show when she listens to the love songs of the rivals for her favor.

Little Miss Madeline McMahon will have a neat comedy role in dodging amorously inclined beaus. Miss Alice MacKenzie, soprano; Charles Gallagher, bass, and John W. Wheeler will have good parts in the cast.

Oodles of chances for funmaking will be allowed Powell and Woodruff in "The Red Mill" in their roles of "Kid Conners" and "Con Kidders," parts made famous by Dave Montgomery and Fred Stones, kings of slapstick comedy.

Coolidge Hears Pastor Score "Elmer Gantrys"

:: PRESIDENT AND WIFE JOIN IN HYMNS ::

Rapid City, S. D., June 26.—(United News.)—Christ was not like Elmer Gantry, the famous double-faced parson of the recent novel, Rolf Lium, 20-year-old college student parson, told President Coolidge, Mrs. Coolidge and the usual Sunday congregation at the cowtown church in Hermosa today.

Jesus, the young unordained pastor said, developed physical, oral and mental aspects of life without stressing any of the three and thereby set an example for all generations.

Lium startled his congregation by his reference to the hero of the Ironic novel of religion written by Sinclair Lewis. He carefully steered away from politics as he fumbled with keys in the vest pocket of his broad-bottomed trousers, but he drove home the point of divinity of the Saviour.

"I can not prove Christ is the Son of God," he said. "I cannot by logical argumentation and without making some broad assumptions show that Jesus was divine.

"All that is to be said to doubters is: Try to live like Jesus lived. Try to keep a perfect harmony between the physical, mental and moral sides of your nature. Try to keep your better selves always in control and you will find only a Devine Being could have done it as Jesus did.

"Christ was not inconsistent in His saying. He was, therefore, much unlike Elmer Gantry of today who says one thing and does another."

Gantry, the fiction character, was a dissolute and irresponsible preacher who permitted personal inclinations to overcome his religious zeal. His life was supposed to travesty some modern preachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge joined in hymns "Love Divine, All Love Exceling" and "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Rock of Ages." A schoolmarm played the piano, a tremulor tenor sang and two cow-punchers passed the collection plate into which Mr. Coolidge dropped a silver dollar, emblem of this western land.

There were no movie scenes as was the case last Sunday and the quiet western informality of the service contrasted little from the usual Sunday worship.

Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge rode back to the state game lodge and there spent a quiet Sunday afternoon and evening, Mrs. Coolige knitting and Mr. Coolidge smoking cigars and contemplating the rock hills which jut up from his front lawn to the house.

'UNITED GEORGIA' SEEN BY HASTINGS

Georgia Association Head Tells Legislators of Reawakened Spirit in All Parts of State.

Striking evidence that Georgia is wiping out all sectional and factional lines in grappling with her pressing agricultural reorganization problems was given Sunday by President H. G. Hastings, of the Georgia association, in an informal meeting with legislators and representatives of various communities throughout the state.

Five specific campaigns—all parts of the general state-wide campaign of the Georgia association for $100,000 for two years to do this work—now are under way, Mr. Hastings revealed, and all are receiving intense support. They are being conducted in the Augusta, Athens, Waycross, Bainbridge and Macon territories.

"If you gentlemen could but attend any one of these meetings and observe the profound interest and the profound willingness to serve that is manifest," he declared, "it would thrill you beyond expression. It shows a united Georgia, forgetting political differences, personal differences, sectional differences and economic differences—a Georgia which has taken off its coat and gone to work to rebuild our state."

Leaders at Work.

He recited instances of important public officials and business leaders who had steadfastly refused to serve in other movements, because of the great pressure of affairs upon them, joining with the Georgia association movement and working manfully to make the campaign for funds a success so that the advertising, marketing and production plans of the association could be put into effect without delay.

"The industrial growth and progress of Georgia in recent years has been marvelous," he said, "and is still going ahead with every wide awake city and town making bids for new industries. This is fine, but are the people in our industralized cities and towns stopping to think about who is going to buy and pay for these manufactured products? Much, of course, will be sold out state but most will have to seek a market in Georgia and the southeast where similar conditions exist.

"The greatest part of Georgia is naturally an agricultural, horticultural and live stock state. God made it so. About three-fourths of Georgia's population is agricultural in character, dependent on a financially successful agriculture for its living, for its ability to buy and pay for manufactured products and other human needs and simple luxuries.

Farms Unsuccessful.

"No one can dispute the fact that Georgia agriculturally has not, as a whole, been financially successful for the past six years. This is evidenced by the abandonment of more than 61,000 farms; by the millions of dollars of foreclosed mortgages on Georgia farm lands; by the failure of banks and bankruptcy of merchants in our agricurtural sections; by the excessively low net earning power of the average Georgia farm family; by the decrease (U. S. census) of some $500,000,000 in Georgia farm land values between 1920 and 1925.

"It is no secret that business conditions are not satisfactory in most of our Georgia cities and towns, despite general national prosperity.

PARTY OPPOSED TO BLUE LAWS IS ORGANIZED

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—Under the leadership of the Association Opposed to Blue Laws, a new political party known as the "anti-blue law party" has been formed here and announced that it will hold a national convention next year, probably in New York.

Almost Half-Million Is Paid To Capture DeAutremonts

:: U. S., RAILROAD, EXPRESS COMPANY PAYS COST ::

Spokane, Wash., June 26.—(AP)—It cost almost half a million dollars to bring the three De Antremont brothers to justice, Charles Riddiford, United States postoffice inspector who directed the man hunt for four years, estimates.

Following their confession of the attempted robbery of a Southern Pacific train in the Siskiyou, Ore., tunnel, in which the train was dynamited and four men slain, Hugh, Roy and Ray De Autremont were given life sentences in the Oregon penitentiary.

The federal government, Southern Pacific railroad and American Express company have paid approximately $500,000 for reward posters and expenses, he stated.

Between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 posters describing the trio were used to girdle the globe. Postoffice inspectors during the chase covered the United States and searched in Canada, Mexico, Central America, several European countries and the Philippines, Riddiford declared. Descriptive circulars were posted in every postoffice in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

The reward for the arrest of Hugh, the first to be captured, will probably go to a soldier, who at Angel Island, California, recognized in the circular of Hugh the picture of the man with whom he had served in the Philippines. A $5,300 reward was offered for each of the brothers.

Following Hugh's arrest, a second series of photographs was distributed, Riddiford said, and a man at Steubenville recognized the twins, Roy and Ray, and told authorities. Mr. Riddiford did not give the name of the two men who first recognized the two fugitives.

PICTURE STARS PLAN TO FIGHT PAY REDUCTION

Crisis Will Be Reached Today Which May Result in General Strike in Movieland.

CANVASS PLANNED BY ACTORS' EQUITY

Stars and Subordinates Are Advised Not to Sign Until Investigation Is Made.

Hollywood, Cal., June 26.—(United News.)—A crisis in the film city which may result in a general strike of picture players and technicians will be reached here Monday.

Formal announcement is made at the Burbank studios of the First National Pictures corporation that all non-contract salaries would be reduced 10 per cent, effective Monday, and that stars, directors and others under contract would be asked to waive their agreements and accept proportionate reductions.

News dispatches from New York indicated that all other studios in Hollywood and surrounding towns would issue similar orders, which already have been formulated in the east, the first part of the week.

Meantime, the stars and secondary players are attempting to effect a general organization of the industry to resist the salary cuts.

An appeal to the Actors' Equity of New York will be the first move made.

Emergency Period.

"Temperament town" does not take kindly to such mercenary things as salary reductions to tide over what the film magnates say is an emergency period in this, the fifth largest industry in the world.

Fireworks in plenty are anticipated when the balance of the studios post their formal notices Monday.

Leading stars and directors declined to be quoted directly on the defensive steps being taken today, for fear of being singled out for disciplinary measures before the general orders are issued.

However, the leaders agreed that the famous faces which smilingly greet the kleig lights of Hollywood each day will never "mug" a time clock, even if protracted vacations are necessary to win the dispute.

Ultimatum Given.

The first national players, who have already had their ultimatum laid down to them by Ned Marin, temporary manager of west coast production for this company, are making their plans in secret with brother actors of the other studios, and decline to make public statements until the retrenchment orders are in effect against the entire industry.

Action through the Actors' Equity probably will be sought by individual stars who have affiliation with the organization through previous contact with the stage. The lesser players and technical people are urging that they also be represented in the protest, and for that reason the move to organize the industry generally is being made today.

CANVASS PLANNED BY EQUITY BOARD.

Hollywood, Calif., June 26.—(AP)—The motion picture branch of the Actors' Equity association today announced that it would ask all contract writers, actors, and directors to decline to sign the proposed salary

'CHRISTIANS MUST BE POLITICIANS'

Secretary Wilbur Attacks General Public Attitude Elections Are Too Dirty for Nice People.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 26.—(United News.)—Christians cannot turn their backs sneeringly upon politics, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur said addressing the state Christian Endeavor society.

"There is a tendency exhibited by many citizens, and particularly by the youth of this country," he declared, "to deride politics, political conventions, primaries and elections; to speak of corruption in politics with cynical sneer as though it were something quite apart from our own concern and quite to be expected.

"If we do this we are turning away from the highest privilege accorded to us by the form of government in which we live."

The contrast between the conduct of Christian peoples and the Chinese in face of disaster was drawn by Wilbur.

After reciting the generous way the nation came to the relief of sufferers in the Florida hurricane and the Mississippi floods, Wilbur told of an incident in an unnamed Chinese village, after their food supply was taken away by bandits.

"They held a consultation and all decided to commit suicide which was done by marching down into the river and drowning," he said. "It did not occur to them that anyone would come to their aid or be under obligation to do so."

ALL PARIS JOKES AS POLICE SEEK MISSING DAUDET

Director of Police Is Dismissed But Newspapers Continue To Ridicule French Government.

Paris, June 26.—(AP)—All Paris laughed and joked today at the expense of the government, which was tricked into releasing three of the most prominent inmates of Sante prison and doesn't know where to find them.

The royalists Leon Daudet and M. Delest and the communist Semard, who was let out of prison yesterday with them by a ruse on the part of Daudet's bright young royalist zealots, were still at liberty tonight. The police are looking for them, and other government agents are conducting a series of inquiries to determine how it could have happened, and the way it did—two simple telephone calls, with Director Catry of the prison at one end of the line and a royalist, who said he was M. Sarraut, minister of the interior, on the other.

Director Loses Job.

Director Catry already has lost his job, but the newspapers, when the humor of the situation allows them to be at all serious, assert that the blame belongs higher up, and that Catry is being made the scapegoat. After all, papers of all shades of opinion inquire in a chorus, had not the director of the prison been ordered by telephone only a week previously to release the communist hunger striker Girardin, the orders on that occasion coming also from high quarters—the ministry of justice!

Maurice Jpujo, editor in chief of Daudet's paper L'Action Francaise, who gleefully told the press how the "camelots du roi" or "king's henchmen" had brought about Daudet's release—as much as anyone else—was called before the court of inquiry today, as were many others.

M. Sarraut, whose name was taken—but not exactly in vain—by the man who telephoned to the prison ordering the release of the prisoners, learned about the incident while dedicating a monument to the war dead at the other end of Paris. He was in the company of the prefect police, Monsieur Chiappe.

Sarraut Angered.

Director Catry, as customary, sent word to M. Chiappe that the prisoners had been liberated. The prefect turned to M. Sarraut and said: "Mon-

Held Captive InHouseHere, Girl Charges

Courtland Street Woman Is Arrested as Kidnaper; Policeman Suspended.

Settlement of a dispute between Mrs. Roy A. Gordon, 40, of 200 Courtland street, and Cordia Ash, 16-year-old Macon girl, over whether the latter spent a week at Mrs. Gordon's home as a guest or six weeks as a prisoner, was undertaken Sunday by the law when Mrs. Gordon was arrested on a warrant charging her with kidnapping.

Arrest of Mrs. Gordon by Ben T. Watkins, chief of police of Macon. Chief of Detectives Burns, of that city, and Atlanta police followed a complaint by the young girl on her return home to Macon after an absence of over a month that she had been kidnapped by Mrs. Gordon and detained at the Courtland street house for six weeks. Mrs. Gordon, who was carried to Macon for detention, denies the girl's charges, alleging that she befriended Cordia when the latter claimed to be homeless and hungry.

Meanwhile, Officer C. D. Holton, of the Atlanta police department, has been suspended by Chief of Police James L. Beavers pending a full investigation by the police committee of council of charges that involve Officer Holton in the case.

Sensational Story.

Miss Ash disappeared from her home in Macon on April 22, and reappeared several days ago with a sensational story of having been kidnapped, held a prisoner in a hotel in that city for three days, and then brought to Atlanta, where she was confined in Mrs. Gordon's home until she escaped and made her way back to Macon, according to advices from that city.

According to information furnished Chief Beavers Sunday by Cordia Ash's father, following the arrest of the Gordon woman, Mr. Ash came to Atlanta several weeks ago looking for the girl, and, in company with Officer Holton, went to Mrs. Gordon's home. Officer Holton went inside while Mr. Ash remained outside of the house, and later came out with

Race Over Pacific To Reach Honolulu May Start Today

Ernest L. Smith and Charles H. Carter Are Planning To Hop Off Before Sundown.

ARMY PLANE JUMP SET FOR TUESDAY

Two Service Fliers Announce That They Will Wait for Arrival of General Patrick.

San Francisco, Calif., June 26.—(AP) Ernest L. Smith, air mail pilot, and Charles H. Carter, his navigator, were feverishly rushing preparations tonight for their hop-off toward Honolulu and observers agreed that the start would be made before sun-down tomorrow.

Announcement that their rivals, the two army flyers, would wait for the arrival of General Mason Patrick, chief of the army air service, gave Smith and Carter a good chance to start ahead of them.

TWO RIVAL CAMPS SEEK LEADERSHIP.

BY H. O. THOMPSON.

San Francisco, June 26.—(United News.)—Two rival camps of airmen late today rushing into the final stages of a dramatic battle for the honor of being the first to get away on a flight from California to Hawaii.

Backed by the resources of the United States army, Lieutenants Lester J Maitland and Albert Hegenberger were ready for the perilous flight of 2,408 miles to the islands in mid-Pacific. Opposing them is a little band of civilian aviators who are doing everything to speed the take-off of Ernie Smith, air mail pilot.

The army's attempt to reach Honolulu will be started Tuesday, Lieutenant Maitland said tonight after he and Lieutenant Hegenberger returned here from a trial flight over the San Francisco bay region.

Circle Airport.

The men flew in the big Fokker monoplane which they will use in the Hawaiian flight. During the test they circled several times a few hundred feet above the Oakland airport on Bay Farm island and said upon their return that the hop-off probably would be from that field.

"We will take our plane over there Monday afternoon," said Lieutenant Maitland, "and intend to get started Tuesday."

Smith's machine, a rebuilt Travel-air monoplane, ferried across San Francisco bay to Bay Farm island and mechanics swarmed about the field, putting last touches to get the craft ready.

The army fliers, leaving their huge tri-motored Fokker plane in a Crissy field hangar, flew in a smaller army plane to the Bay Farm island field, which they had expected to use in their hop-off, and returned here with the announcement that they might be forced to use Mather field, Sacramento, as their starting point.

"There are strong cross-winds that seem to blow continuously at Bay Farm," said Lieutenant Maitland. "We will make further tests to decide definitely whether this will interfere with the start."

Brigadier General Mason Patrick, chief of the army corps, was expected Monday and was to be consulted before the arrangements are agreed upon definitely.

Wings Are Adjusted.

The Smith flight project, privately financed, was not so far advanced to-

TEN CHILDREN SEE MOTHER KILLED AT MOUNTAIN HOME

Clayton, Ga., June 26.—(Special.) Mrs. Columbus Marcus was shot and killed at her home near Burton dam early today and her husband, Columbus Marcus, is in jail here charged with having fired the shot that caused her death. Officers state that Marcus was under the influence of whiskey when found and that he claims he remembers nothing of having shot his wife.

Besides her husband, the woman is survived by 10 children, who it is said, witnessed the shooting.

Details of the tragedy are meager on account of the inaccessibility of the section in which the Marcus home is located. The coroner is investigating the affair.

BOAT CAPTAIN DIES OF BURNS

Bainbridge, Ga., June 26.—(Special.)—Ralph Connell, of Bainbridge, captain and owner of the steamboat John W. Callahan, Jr., that runs between Bainbridge and Apalachicola, Fla., died here today of burns received on the return boat trip home Saturday afternoon from Apalachicola, the accident occurring 10 miles above Chattahoochee, Fla., when Captain Connell and John Jackson, negro, removed the manhole cap for repair work on the boiler which still had some steam in it. The steam gushed out when the cap fell scalding the victims on the face and chest and when they turned to escape it they were severely burned on the back.

Captain Connell and Jackson were taken in a row boat back to Chattahoochee and brought to Bainbridge by automobile and placed in a hospital. The negro is expected to recover.

Captain Connell was a colorful figure here where he was popularly known, having been in the steamboat work about 26 years. He knew Flint river and was entertaining in his stories of river and boat experiences. He knew practically no other life, having entered the boat service when about 12 years old.

The widow, three small children, mother and two brothers, Roy and Tom, and one sister, Mrs. Herman Grinslaid, of Wewahitchka, Fla., survive. Funeral services have not been announced.

GROUND BROKEN FOR BIG CHURCH IN WASHINGTON

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—Ground was broken here today for the new $300,000 Church of the Pilgrims, southern presbytery, funds for which are being contributed by about 50,000 people throughout the southern states. The church, which will replace a smaller one, will be situated in the fashionable northwest section and is expected to be completed by next Easter.

Everett Sanders, secretary to President Coolidge, in a letter to the Rev. Andrew R. Bird, pastor of the church, which was read at the ceremony, conveyed Mr. Coolidge's "greetings, best wishes and congratulations on obtaining more adequate facilities for larger service."

U. S. CALLS BRITAIN FOR NAVY SHOWDOWN

to those classes of vessels not covered by the Washington treaty, an extension of the 5-5-3 ratio as regards the United States, Great Britain and Japan, and to leave to discussion at Geneva the ratios of France and Italy."

While not generally apparent at the time, it now appears probable that President Coolidge was concerned with the rapid expansion of the British navy as a result of a heavy cruiser building program. At the time of the Washington conference, Great Britain had 45 modern cruisers to our 30. Since then she has undertaken to build 14, and the United States eight, three of which were ordered started last winter after congress became alarmed at the rapidity with which Britain was racing ahead of the United States in naval strength.

Showdown Needed.

It is probable, though not admitted officially, that President Coolidge realized that sooner or later there must be a showdown with Great Britain to determine whether the two navies would be kept equal by agreement, or whether the two powers would have to race each other in cruiser building.

It has been a traditional policy of the United States for some time that it must be the equal of any power on the sea. That is the theory and it was approved in theory at the Washington arms conference when Great Britain agreed to a 5-5-3 ratio for capital ships. But as the two navies stand, it is an equality of battleships only and not as to total naval strength.

British unofficial spokesmen at Geneva are causing concern here by insisting that Great Britain, because of her dependence on outside food supplies, must dominate the seas. The United States recognizes Great Britain's problem but cannot consent to accept a position of inferiority. This was emphasiezd sharply by a high official Saturday. It is the issue on which this government rather than surrender will end the conference if necessary.

One paradoxical situation should be borne in mind. The United States insists upon recognition by England of our right to equality in total naval strength. But that does not mean that the United States necessarily intends, if a 5-5-3 ratio is adopted for cruisers, to build every ton permitted this country.

Psychology to Bat.

It is partly a psychological situation. The United States contemplates no war with Britain. There is every indication of peaceful cooperation between the two powers for years to come. Yet this government feels unable to accept a policy which would enforce naval inferiority on it. It is willing—that is large elements in congress are willing—to proceed leisurely in building up the navy. What is insisted upon is the right to build ton-for-ton with Britain. Once that right is recognized, this government will have no uneasiness over the actual inequalities.

Senator Borah recently said that even if the 5-5-3 ratio is agreed to, the United States will have other things to do besides building up to its maximum. Probably this view would have considerable support, although big navy forces are always anxious to build to the limit. Saner counsel probably would prevail in event this government's right to build to Britain's strength were recognized.

On the other hand, if the conference breaks up because Britain insists upon supremacy, sentiment here will be aroused and the big navy forces will most likely prevail. In many quarters here Britain's refusal to agree would be construed as an intention to keep ahead of the United States and leaders here doubt if sentiment in America would tolerate any such situation.

J. S. COWAN DIES AT DAUGHTER'S HOME

J. S. Cowan, 62, formerly of Oxford, Ga., died late Sunday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Morgan, of 393 North Highland avenue, N. E., following an extended illness.

Surviving are five daughters, Mrs. W. E. William, of Oxford; Mrs. L. A. Biggers, of Covington; Mrs. W. E. Lloyd, of Mansfield, Ga., and Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. L. H. Noggle, of Atlanta, and one son, C. C. Cowan, of Covington.

The body will be taken to Hayston, Ga., for funeral services and interment, the time to be announced later.

DELAY IN DISCUSSION ORDERED BY JAPAN

Tokio, June 27.—(Monday). The Japanese government has instructed Admiral Baron Saito, its chief delegate to the three-power naval disarmament conference in Geneva, to advocate deferring discussion of capital ships until an agreement is reached on auxiliary craft.

TWO LOUISIANA DEAF MUTE GIRLS KILLED BY TRAIN

New Orleans, June 26.—(AP)—Two deaf mute girls were instantly killed near the shore of Lake Pontchartrain today when struck by the Queen and Crescent Limited of the Southern railway. The dead are: Charlotte Mowen, 17 years old, and Sarah Dunn, 24.

Clad in bathing suits, the two girls were stragglers of a deaf mute swimming party at Little Woods, La., under the supervision of J. C. Soland, secretary of the National Association for the Deaf, according to local police. Walking leisurely along the railroad tracks, the girls were apparently unaware of the frantic blasts of the locomotive whistle as the train roared down on them from behind and probably died without knowing what hit them.

public use; a series of bills for revising laws covering educational institutions and schools, prepared by the legislative committe of the Georgia Educational association, and several bills prepared by the legislative committee of the state federation of labor.

Administration Bills.

Governor Hardman will stress the need of early action on measures which he will support for inaugurating a strictly business administration for the state. The governor has studied the system of government of other states and bills embodying his policies will be offered during the week in the two branches of the assembly.

Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture, the only new official other than the governor to go into office, will begin the work of reorganizing his departurtment Monday. He has served notice on all employees of the Brown administration that he will supplant them with new employees and has appointed to tentative posts several officials.

Stop Pay.

Commissioner Talmadge notified all office employees of their removal Saturday, in accordance with his "clean sweep" campaign pledge.

"If I am unable to reach all of the salaried field men in time for delivery of discharge notices," the commissioner said, "they will know about it anyway, for there will be no more checks. I'm going to sign none for them and the jobs won't be worth much without pay."

Felix E. Boswell, director of the bureau of markets under the retiring administration, refused to accept his dismissal. Commissioner Talmadge, however, declared he had legal authority for the belief that a state employment contract extending beyond the fiscal year is without force. Mr. Boswell and "two or three others" whom the commissioner declined to name, declined to accept their dismissal, he said, relying on commissions issued by J. J. Brown, retiring commissioner, and on their face valid for several months.

Peremptory dismissals from the department for the moment will not extend to fee workers, among whom are the 189 oil inspectors appointed by Mr. Brown, the new commissioner stated. "I'll get around to them later," he said.

New Appointees.

Among the men named temporarily for places in the department of agriculture are Judge Max McRae, director of the state bureau of markets; Walter Vance, state oil inspector; Dr. C. A. Wells, state chemist; John H. Andrews, pure food and drug inspector; J. J. Mann, Kirkwood, chief fertilizer inspector; J. W. Puckett, Canton, clerk; Miss Isabel Hanson and R. L. Yeomans, assistant chemists; R. M. Carricker, Jackson, cashier; Miss Elizabeth Hines, Kirkwood; Arch Winn, Decatur; Layman C. Anderson, Williamson, and J. H. Williams, Fitzgerald, clerks, and January Smith, colored, Forsyth, porter.

Filling the places made vacant by dismissals may be rather a slow process, Commissioner Talmadge said, declaring he intends to put on new workers only as observations prove the need. Under the retiring administration 69 persons were employed in the Atlanta office, and the remainder of a total of more than 300 in the field.

"So far I am inclined to believe that it takes about 69 persons properly to do the business of the headquarters office," Mr. Talmadge said Sunday, "but one thing is sure—they'll all be new ones and they'll be appointed only when actual need for them in shown."

He said he expected to name "three or four more headquarters office employees Monday.

In retiring from the office as state commissioner of agriculture, which position he held for the past 10 years, J. J. Brown issued a brief statement, expressing the "hope that Georgia's department of agriculture will be successful in rendering the greatest service possible to the people of our state."

Mr. Brown stated that he will devote his time to his farm interests in Appling county in the immediate future, but that a little later he plans to do some work in connection with a farm organization which, he said, is seeking to bring about an agricultural alliance between the south and the west. This proposed alliance will have for its purpose, he said, to conserve, promote, and protect American agricultural interests, through getting enacted federal and state laws "that will ultimately provide a system of distributing farm products that will net the farmer the cost of production plus a reasonable amount of profit."

"In leaving the service as commissioner of agriculture," Mr. Brown said in conclusion, "I take this opportunity to thank the people of my state for the support and cooperation they have given me during my 10 years in office in an effort to bring about a change in thes ystem of distributing farm products that would make for more prosperous farming in Georgia."

Why? These unsatisfactory city and town business conditions are the direct reaction from these unsatisfactory farm conditions that have been allowed to go from bad to worse with little attention being paid to them by our business element. There has largely been the idea that it was a temporary depression that would cure itself instead of a recognition that this present situation is the result of changes in the fundamentad conditions of our agriculture.

"With the competitive conditions arising in the new cotton territory of West Texas and Oklahoma, where cotton is produced at 5 to 7 cents per pound less than average Georgia costs, and with 18,000,000 acres still available to bring in, Georgia is hopelessly handicapped in cotton growing under our present system and practice.

"Our present system of cotton growing in Georgia is doomed. We have our choice of two things. Either go to a fully diversified and live stock farm basis whether we like it or not, or else be largely wiped out. This change to a diversified and live stock basis is the only way the cotton growing industry can be saved to Georgia. Fewer acres in cotton, more and better cotton per acre produced at less cost per pound. This is the only answer."

TWO RIVAL CAMPS READY FOR FLIGHT

day as the army undertaking. The monoplane's wings were adjusted during the afternoon and the machine's instruments were installed.

The new Wright whirlwind motor had been fitted in while the plane was assembled in a San Francisco machine shop, and except for minor adjustments the plane was ready for its tests.

Smith will be accompanied on his flight by Captain Charles H. Carter, an experienced seaman, who is trying long distance flying for the first time. Carter's skill as a navigator is just as adaptable on board an airship as on a ship. He has on bord instruments for use in the flight.

At the first signs of activity from the army group, Smith plans to start for Hawaii.

"Tests or no tests," he said, "I intend to be the first in the air."

If the army flight is held over a day or possibly longer, however, Smith may take advantage of the wait to give his plane a thorough testing.

PACIFIC FLIGHT EXPECTED TO TEST NAVIGATION AIDS

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, June 26.—Valuable information in the way of tests of navigation aids which have been developed to facilitate flights without aid of landmarks is expected by the war department to result from the San Francisco-Honolulu flight, which will be undertaken soon by Lieutenants Albert F. Hegenberger and Lester J. Maitland.

The proposed Hawaiian flight, according to the department, is one of the longest ever projected without landmarks to guide the flier. The distance is about 2,390 miles, as compared to the 1,950 miles spanned by Alcock or the 1,375 miles traveled by the NC-4.

The present army radio beacon with 5-k. w. input using super hetrodyne reception in an open DH-4 cockpit and shielded engine will give a range of about 300 miles under favorable conditions. Over water, it is explained in a bulletin issue by the department today, with a perfectly shielded airplane, inclosed cabin, long antennae and a 10-k. w. transmitter such as are features of the plane to be used in the Hawaiian flight, it is expected a range of about 1,000 miles will be obtained. The width of the equi-signal zone should be about 20 miles in this distance. By locating one beacon near San Francisco and one near Kahului on the isalnd of Maui, the beams would nearly over-lap and the plane should never be out of radio communication with land.

Except for the first few hundred miles and immediately surrounding the Hawaiian islands, weather conditions, according to the bulletin, are such that fog should not be encountered. A flight from San Francisco to Honolulu, the bulletin continues, would follow the usual San Francisco-to-Honolulu steamer tracks and during the latter part of the trip the Vancouver-to-Honolulu steamer tracks.

NAVAL FLIER'S BODY WASHED UP ON BEACH

Santa Ana, Calif., June 26.—(AP)—The body of Lieutenant Commander William S. Hatcher, naval officer attached to forces stationed at San Diego, and missing since the crash of a seaplane early last Wednesday morning several miles out at sea, was washed ashore today at Sunset beach, near here.

ALL PARIS JOKES AS DAUDET ESCAPES

sieur le ministre, Daudet Delest and Semard have been duly liberated."

"Duly liberated?" cried the astonished minister. "What do you mean by duly liberated. Have they escaped, or what?"

M. Chiappe at once set about to learn the circumstances, and then informed M. Sarraut, who remarked angrily:

"Duly liberated is good. It would have been better for somebody if they had unduly escaped."

A few hours later the ax fell on Catry, and the cabinet was called in special session to see what could be done. Meanwhile Paris had begun to smile and joke, and is likely to keep on doing so for a long time, for already song writers and music hall performers are poking fun at the government over the victory which the "king's henchmen" won at "the bastille of the republic."

It was Mme. Daudet's fear of what would happen to her husband's well-known appetite if he had to stay in jail after a nearby restaurant, from which his food was brought to him, changed hands, that led to the hatching of the clever sceme for is release.

Mme. Daudet had been going to the restaurant daily, adding delicacies of her own making to the meal carried to him from the outside. Last week the manager told her he was going to sell the restaurant. She suspected in the change something of ill augury for her husband, hurried to the headquarters of L'Action Francaise and implored the officials of that paper to get Daudet out of Prison before the restaurant changed hands. Whereupon the clever plotting began.

All the Paris papers comment today, most of them with "their tongues in their cheeks." Nearly all the editorials end in a serious tone, poing out the laxness allowed to exist in the conduct of the government's machinery.

The Petit Journal says that no doubt the incident will take rank as the most formidable hoax of the century.

The communists are displeased at the fact that Semard was released by royalist trickery, but his advisers have refused to allow him to surrender again as he wished. Semard is the only one whose whereabouts is known. He is staying quietly at communist headquarters. Daudet and Delest have disappeared; they have not been seen at their homes or at the offices of L'Action Francaise.

There is a difference of opinion in official circles over the possibility of imprisoning the three again. It is pointed out that they were ordered out of the prison by the director, so that they are not fugitives or escaped prisoners.

The government, however, appears to be taking no chances of allowing the royalist leader and his lieutenant their liberty. The perfect of police has received orders to make a thorough search, which is expected to reach far from Paris. It is believed they have gone to Perpignan to attend a royalist meeting.

Furthermore, the government is determined to ferret out the authors of the mysterious telephone call from the ministry of the interior, ordering their release, which is admitted to be the most seditious part of the whole affair—impersonating a member of the cabinet.

cut agreement with film producers until the equity organization and the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences have made a canvass of the situation. The equity officials said the investigation would include questioning of producers regarding the purpose of the proposed 10 per cent wage reduction.

The equity announcement followed a meeting of the film organization last night. Conrad Nagel presided and Frank Gilmore, of the New York equity organization, was present.

It was declared by equity officials after the meeting that the actors were not definitely opposing the decrease, but want to know the reason and would consent if the reason satisfied them.

The motion picture equity includes but a small part of the film actors but efforts were said to be under way to expand it. Members of the executive committee include Jack Holt, Douglas McLean, Richard Dix, Lois Wilson, Charles Ray, Jack Mulhall, Ernest Torrance and Milton Sills.

HELD AS CAPTIVE, GIRL CHARGES

the statement that the girl was not there, Mr. Ash said.

On the return of Cordia Ash to Macon, she told her father that she saw him, accompanied by the officer, from a window as he approached the house, but was ordered by Mrs. Gordon to go to the kitchen immediately. Officer Holton entered the house and escorted her through the back way to a nearby cafe, where she remained until her father left, the girl is alleged to have said.

According to Chief Beavers' information, the girl claimed that Officer Holton called on her at Mrs. Gordon's home several times, talking with her in the parlor of the house, this following the visit of Officer Holton to Mrs. Gordon's with the father.

Denies Kidnapping.

Following her arrest, Mrs. Gordon denied that kidnapping was involved in the presence of Cordia Ash in her home, stating that the girl claimed that she was out of money and wanted something to eat, and that she kept her in her home for a week as a guest, out of sympathy.

Chief Beavers assigned Detective Lieutenant T. D. Shaw to investigate the case, Lieutenant Shaw calling in Detectives J. Lewis Whitley and Joe Allen to work with him.

The Ash girl, accompanied by her father, came to Atlanta Sunday to identify Mrs. Gordon, the party returning to Macon where Mrs. Gordon was locked in the police barracks under the warrant charging kidnapping.

In connection with the alleged kidnapping, police stated that they are looking for a young married man who is said to have figured in the case.

Carolinian Dies.

FAST RIDE ENDS WITH TWO DEAD

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution.)

Chicago, June 26.—Three sheiks, two flappers, a bottle of gin and a fast car. This combination produced the expected results when the highway police picked up one dead boy, one dead girl, another boy who is dying, the second girl badly injured. The third boy who was driving the car fled, bruised and bleeding as the police were inside a hospital arranging for his entrance and it is feared he has committed suicide, overcome with the horror of the wild night.

Margaret Christina Johnson, 17, is the girl who was instantly killed. On a slab next to her at the Montrose Avenue hospital is the body of Trygve Svenungsen, 21, also killed instantly. In the same hospital, unconscious, with a fractured skull and broken legs, is Charles Lichamer, 21. He will hardly survive the night. Marjorie Leonard, 16, suffering many bruises and lacerations, is being held as a witness, while Joseph Zamp, driver of the death car, badly injured, has vanished.

The three boys had picked up the girls in Riverview park and they drove to a roadhouse where a bottle of gin was purchased. After drinking it, Zamp boasted that he would show his companions how fast his car would travel. At top speed they crashed into a concrete pole and the car was smashed like an egg, the occupants being pitched headlong into a net work of live wires brought down when the pole broke.

Marjorie Leonard, who had refused to drink any of the gin, was the only one conscious when the ambulances came and she may be the only survivor.

What Frigidaire Users Say:

"It so happens that I have a house that is nearly 100 per cent electrically equipped with different appliances, including the furnace, and if I were to choose which accessory to my family's comfort I could dispose of, I would readily give them all up in favor of retaining my Frigidaire."
—A. C. Mc.*

"Really, the greatest advantage of Frigidaire is that it keeps your food perfectly fresh and there is no loss whatsoever from this cause. Furthermore, this very fact adds, naturally, to the health of the family. You can keep milk a week in perfect condition."
—F. J. M.*

"I think the statement of Mrs. M._____ that she had rather be without any other household convenience than the Frigidaire is a pretty good indication of the view a woman takes of it and shows the reliability which the machine demonstrates in actual service."

WIPING OUT ILLITERACY.

It is extremely important that Georgia continue her campaign for the eradication of illiteracy.

The next federal census will be taken in 1930—only three years hence. It should show a record to be proud and not ashamed of.

The state illiteracy commission was created in 1919, and since that time most gratifying progress has been made. But this assembly must provide for the funds for carrying on the work in 1928 and in 1929, else the activities of the commission will cease after this year.

Senator A. H. Thompson and Representative G. C. Adams will introduce shortly a joint bill appropriating the sum of $25,000 a year for both of these years, to be used in connection with funds provided from other individuals and sources for this work.

There should not be an opposing vote, and it is hoped there will not be.

This state has suffered much on account of its large illiteracy percentage and its inadequate school support.

The federal census of 1920, which was widely broadcast, as are all census statistics, placed the state in such an unenviable light in these respects that it made its citizens almost bow their heads in shame.

But through the activities of the state commission it will be a different story in 1930, provided the assembly keeps the good work going.

WHO FEEDS GEORGIA?

On this page is reprinted an article that is going the rounds of the press of the United States about Charlie Seabrook, a New Jersey farmer, who grows and markets a half-million dollars' worth of vegetables annually, and does so at a net profit of $100,000 a year.

He has simply applied proven business methods to farming. He installed irrigation, built up his soil to a state of high fertility, and then standardized not only production, but pack, package and marketing.

Not only has he standardized the marketing but the supply. That is to say, his production is so uniform that he can contract the supply with dependableness. Therefore his entire production, though perishable, is as staple as cotton or any other of the major farm commodities.

There are a great many Charlie Seabrooks all over the country and there should be many of them in Georgia. There are farmers in Georgia who are making money growing just such products as this New Jersey farmer grows at such great profit.

Some one may suggest that Seabrook has the advantage of being at the front door of the great New York city market. But Georgia does not grow even 10 per cent of what she eats of anything except of peaches and melons. She brings in from other states the overwhelmingly greater portion of meat, chickens, butter, eggs, milk and even vegetables.

The Ocean Steamship company, operating a fleet of ships from Savannah to Boston and New York, furnishes a concrete example. That company is compelled to buy most of the food served on its tables from its eastern ports.

The management of the company would prefer to buy Georgia-grown products, but it is said to be impossible to get them, with the certainty of regular delivery, and those they can get are not standardized either as to pack or supply. And yet Savannah is the door to a large area of as fine farming lands as can be found in this country.

What is true of the Ocean Steamship company is very probably true of all the other steamship lines operating out of South Atlantic ports.

We need some Charlie Seabrooks to apply strict business methods to truck farming, and to so standardize the supplies that they can be depended upon both as to quality and delivery.

There must be system in buying table supplies for a great hotel, or for any large restaurant. The management must have contracts that can be absolutely depended upon.

Atlanta is the largest consuming market in Georgia. And Atlanta brings from other states most of the butter, eggs and poultry consumed. Why? Because the local supply is inadequate.

The hotels and dealers must know that their supplies may be relied upon, and that quality and pack and package are to be kept up to the standard fixed.

If it is profitable in New Jersey to market table products it can be made equally as profitable in Georgia with the same application of business methods. But slip-shod methods, either in production or in marketing, only serve to invite disaster, not only in farming but in every activity.

THE CORPORATION TAX.

The National Building Owners' association, upon motion of Thomas W. Connally, of Atlanta, at its Detroit convention last week, petitioned congress to reduce the corporation tax from 13.5 per cent to 10 per cent.

Almost at the same time Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, a brother of Federal District Judge Tilson, of Macon, was in conference with President Coolidge on tax reduction, and declared subsequently that the president favored a cut in the corporation rate.

All over America, from all walks of life, there is an urgent demand that the tax reduction bill, to be voted out of the ways and means committee in December, shall strike heavily at this high-bracket levy, which is out of all proportion to the other rates.

It is assumed the next bill will provide a $300,000,000 reduction as a minimum. It should be greater, as there is a treasury surplus this year of around $600,000,000.

When the books for the fiscal year are closed on June 30 this surplus may be found much heavier.

The treasury is substantially reducing the national debt, and it is safe and sound to apply the major portion of the surplus to relieving excessive taxation.

A substantial reduction in the corporation tax rate will be especially gratifying to the masses.

Corporations are largely factory producers, covering everything that is consumed.

Taxes necessarily go into costs of operations, including overhead expenses, and the trade prices are fixed with a profit plus upon these gross producing expenses.

Therefore the consuming masses pay the tax bills.

It is demagoguery, pure and simple, for politicians to try to fool the people with the idea that corporations should be excessively taxed because of their great wealth or of their large earnings. It is unfair to the people.

The nuisance taxes should be eliminated entirely, and there should be scientific adjustments in the existing income schedule, but the one big item that can serve all the people most will be a sharp reduction in the corporation tax.

Bringing it down to 10 per cent would be of tremendous advantage.

REAL ESTATE ACTIVITY.

There is marked activity in Atlanta real estate.

The sale recently of the great battery of Candler warehouses on Stewart avenue, involving a cash consideration of $1,500,000, is the largest individual transaction of the year, but the Fulton records will show daily transfers in all sections reaching into huge figures.

One real estate agency reports gross sales on Whitehall street alone of $175,000 made during the past few days.

There is no better security on earth than real estate, and no more profitable security when purchased on a conservative and not a fictitious market, and when purchased even speculatively in the definite path of development.

The production of every commodity on earth regulated by man increases to meet consumptive demands. But real estate does not. Hence its stability and the general soundness of its security.

There is no inflation, no fictitious or speculative values in or around Atlanta.

When the program of city improvements, provided by the bond issue, shortly begins there will naturally be a tremendous impetus to realty values in every section of the city and suburbs.

Experienced operators believe that selling values are more inviting today than they have ever been.

From the record of trading that is reported investment capital seems to take the same view of it.

Babe Ruth is pulling down as great a salary as the president of the United States and doesn't get as many hard knocks.

Divorce suits are generally pressed with seamy side out.

Birmingham News Calls W. G. McAdoo Political Charlatan

(From the Birmingham News.)

Fresh from his doubtful triumphs in expounding the constitution at Tusculum in Tennessee and Mercer in Georgia, Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo is afflicted with nigh aphasia the moment he arrives in the historic county of Mecklenberg in North Carolina. Interviewed there by newspapermen, Mr. Edward Doheny's former counsel is hardly more vocal than the reticent clam. "Nary a word, my boy," according to the veracious chronicler for The Raleigh News and Observer, is Mr. McAdoo's answer to inquiries addressed to him by newspaper boys striving to get before the public what was slumbering in the McAdoo brain.

In the shaded groves of Tusculum university, the eighteenth amendment was Mr. McAdoo's theme, in the cloistered walls of Mercer the Volstead act was his song. In each of these two addresses of his, the paramount question before the country—in Mr. McAdoo's judgment—was "law enforcement;" that is, enforcement of the prohibition law. To all other laws, Mr. McAdoo—in each of these recent speeches of his—paid not even the cool respect of a fleeting glance.

Yet between the hour when Mr. McAdoo spoke to Tusculum's students in Greene county, Tenn., and the moment when he shook his head at Charlotte oracularly to the correspondent of Mr. Josephus Daniels' newspaper, a number of interesting things had taken place in Mr. McAdoo's beloved south, where Mr. McAdoo now lifts up his voice.

Among these interesting things may be noted these: At Troy, Miss., one of McAdoo's countrymen, suspected of being an illicit distiller, was shot down by a prohibition enforcement officer. The dead boy's slayer is now charged with murder in a warrant sworn out by the dead boy's father. At Louisville, Miss., another of Mr. McAdoo's countrymen—a negro, to be sure—wes burnt at the stake by a blood-lusty mob. At Toccoa, Ga., one of Mr. McAdoo's countrywomen was seized by a band of hooded nightstalkers, carried into the woods and flogged almost into insensibility. At Childersburg, in Alabama, one of Mr. McAdoo's countrymen was seized by a band of these bed-sheeted, pillow-slip-hooded cowards, taken into the woods by night and flogged until he was nigh the point of death. At Tampa, Fla., yet another of Mr. McAdoo's countrymen was seized by four marauders in broad daylight, forced into an automobile before his pleading wife's eyes, motored into the country and there flogged mercilessly by his kidnapers.

All these incidents were reported in the newspapers. Mr. McAdoo is reputed to be an omnivorous newspaper reader as well as a flaming patriot who thinks the day ill spent when he isn't preaching "law and order" and the night ill spent when he isn't doing a midnight marathon with the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

Why was this great apostle of "law enforcement" silent at Charlotte on all these appalling developments when the correspondent of Mr. Josephus Daniels' newspaper was tugging at his elbow? Why was it that this arch enemy of "nullifiers of the constitution" had nothing to say? Why did Mr. McAdoo seek refuge behind has "Nary a word, my boy" when Troy and Louisville, when Toccoa and Childersberg and Tampa, were crying out for him to speak, and to speak in no uncertain tone?

It is now eight years since Mr. McAdoo went into the business of "loving the south with a love far brought," and of saving the south, as well as remaining portions of the country, from "nullifiers of the constitution." Each four years—on the ever of each presidential year—Mr. McAdoo condescends to revisit states of the south in which he was either born or rearer, or had striven—not always successfully, to be sure—to earn his daily bread.

And yet in none of these regular quadrennial visitations of his has he yet even whispered any audible protest against the hideous crime of lynching, or the reckless taking-of-human-life by prohibition enforcement officers, or the cowardly flogging of his fellow countrymen and countrywomen by night-stalking mauraders.

Why is it that Mr. McAdoo is now silent, as he has been silent for more than eight years, upon this singing-lash business, upon this "shooting-to-kill" business, upon this burning-at-the-stake business? Is this arch whisper really true that he dares not to protest against any one of these hideous things because he apprehends it is these forces of lawlessness and cowardice that constitute the substructure of his political strength?

McAdoo and North Carolina! "Nary a word, my boy" and the Mecklenberg Declaration! "A quadrennial savior of the south" and "a damned rebellious people!" Brevard and Alexander, Macon and Hawkins, Branch and Badger, Ruffin and Henry Turner, Ransom and Vance, Aycock and McKeever, Flora MacDonald and Worth Bagley, Horner and Bingham—North Carolina has come to a hell of a pass when it can reconcile William Gibbs McAdoo's silence on the singing lash with his hypocritical yowling about wisps of smoke.

Veteran Makes Appeal For Pension Payments

Editor Constitution: In reading my Bible today I notice that the legislature of Georgia was sworn in on my Bible by Judge Marcus W. Beck, of the supreme court, June 22, 1921, six years ago.

They had hunted over the capitol and said they had failed to find one.

I had one lying on my desk. After using it it was returned to me.

I was acting custodian of the capitol, and served Governor Dorsey four years and Governor Walker two months.

A great number of the old boys have left us for the assembly above. I was 79 years of age yesterday, and am so feeble I cannot leave home.

While writing let me say there has been introduced a bill in the general assembly to pay the old soldiers and schools the money left in the treasury not already appropriated. This will help the old soldiers to secure the $200 fund now promised them. As it is now, many of them pass away without getting same.

I thank The Constitution for what it has done for the old boys who wore the gray.

Just in Passing

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON.

Most of the recommendations of Eugene Talmadge, the new commissioner of agriculture, are excellent.

They are sweeping enough, but they are in line with campaign pledges.

With one of his recommendations—that is, that the state board of entomology and its experiment stations be abolished by the repeal of the creation law, and that a department of entomology "to do regulatory work only" be established—I do not agree.

* * * *

Getting back to the beginning—

The oil inspection system in Georgia is cumbersome, expensive and wholly unjustifiable.

It has been charged that it has been maintained purely as a political machine—

Be that as it may other states with more automobiles than Georgia, therefore with a larger gasoline consumption, have one inspector where we have from 20 to 25.

There is no more complaint in those states about adulterated gasoline than there is in Georgia.

Then why should Georgia spend a quarter of a million dollars a year simply to give a couple of hundred people political jobs?

That's all it amounts to, and everybody knows it.

By the adoption of the distillation test, as Mr. Talmadge suggests, the number can be reduced to ten.

The people have voted on this issue. It was outstanding in the race against Commissioner Brown.

The legislature, therefore, in adopting the recommendation will be voicing the will of Georgia.

* * * *

Think about another phase of this inspection business—

Every automobile consumer in the state is paying one-half a cent a gallon gasoline tax for inspection purposes.

It amounts to a great deal more than the service costs; of course, and the remainder goes into the general fund.

But it is wrong. It is fundamentally wrong.

Every penny from the gasoline tax should go to build and maintain the state highways.

I am sorry the new commissioner did not make this recommendation.

If the legislature reduces the oil inspectors to ten as a maximum they should be paid by general appropriation, as any other item of the department's budget, and the inspection tax of one-half cent, which now makes the total gasoline tax four cents, should be diverted to the highway fund.

Every dollar that can be added to that fund will count, if the highway department is so reorganized that all wastes and overlapping can be eliminated, and a system is created by which the state may become the construction unit.

* * * *

Referring back to the oil inspection question—

Why under Heaven's sun is that a function of the agricultural department anyhow?

What has gasoline to do with farming?

I'll admit that a great many farmers have gone broke by using gasoline when they ought to have been pulling the plow reins—

But, if there was ever a misfit in the world it is having the agricultural department in charge of oil inspection.

Just as well make the food and drug laboratory a part of the attorney general's office.

I am sorry that Mr. Talmadge didn't ask the legislature to take the whole oil inspection business out of his hands, and dump it somewhere else, so that he might have more time to help Georgia rehabilitate her agricultural and horticultural interests, and to properly standardize and market her products.

Those are the administrative and service functions of the department of agriculture, and that is the kind of service the commissioner of agriculture should be required to devote his entire time and talents to.

I believe the new commissioner feels that way about it for I am sure he is going to make a good and efficient official.

* * * *

Now, taking up again the board of entomology—

It is entirely correct that the commissioner of agriculture should be chairman of that board, and that it should be a subdivision of the department of agriculture.

It deals directly with the farm and orchard problems.

It is one of the most important service branches of state government.

It would be just as sensible to take doctors away from the hospitals as to take the staff and field entomologists away from the farms and groves of Georgia.

The growing cotton is beautiful today, all over Georgia. But the whole potential crop can be destroyed in ten days if the boll weevil is not controlled.

Another pest can come along, overnight.

Last year the hopper appeared suddenly and unexpectedly.

There are new enemies bearing down on the fruits all the time.

It takes constant watching, and it takes watching by those who know their business.

It is science.

One wouldn't expect a butcher to do a trained job in surgery simply because he knew how to wield a meat ax and saw.

One wouldn't expect so good a farmer as Eugene Talmadge to battle with the thousand and one insect and other pests that constantly, everlastingly and eternally menace the farmer and the orchardist.

And yet it must be done and done right.

Show me an agricultural state that has not a strong department of entomology, with field men and with experiment stations, and with the trained eyes of men of experience focused on the fields and orchards of that state, everywhere, all the time, and I'll show you a state that is broke to the hilt.

The board of entomology is an insurance board.

The cost of around $75,000 a year to maintain its various services is a mighty small premium when its insurance value to all of Georgia, and hence to all of her people, is considered in the light of reason.

* * * *

The new commissioner of agriculture is young, virile, energetic and dependable.

He will make good.

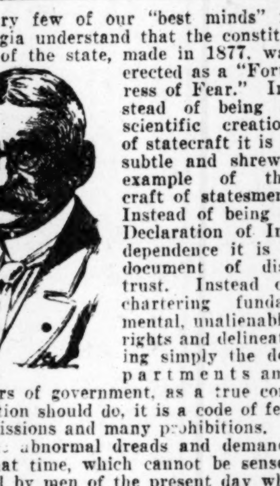

I believe, knowing every county in Georgia as I do, and knowing of the pest problems as I do, that he will make a mistake, however, to even seek to abolish the entomology board.

Assuredly its activities should remain a branch of the agricultural department, and thereby remain a part of its constructive services to agriculture, to better farming, to better orcharding, to better marketing, to better community life, to better economic conditions.

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL

The Ironclad Constitution of the State That Denies Popular Rule.

Very few of our "best minds" in Georgia understand that the constitution of the state, made in 1877, was erected as a "Fortress of Fear." Instead of being a scientific creation of statecraft it is a subtle and shrewd example of the craft of statesmen. Instead of being a Declaration of Independence it is a document of distrust. Instead of chartering fundamental, unalienable rights and delineating simply the departments and powers of government, as a true constitution should do, it is a code of few permissions and many prohibitions.

The abnormal dreads and demands of that time, which cannot be sensed at all by men of the present day who did not live actively and intelligently in that time, imperatively dictated that the constitution should be just what its framers fashioned.

Those men who made it were the wisest, bravest, truest men that Georgia ever produced. They constituted a body that had no peer in the past and no successor since.

The great leaders among them, who directed their delicate and dangerous work, knew as perfectly as any men ever did, just what a constitution for the state should be, and they deplored the abnormal and aggravating circumstances that prevented them from making such a constitution.

* * * *

Ironclading the State.

This writer knew personally every one of those constitution makers of 1877 and daily recorded, with verbatim accuracy, their words and acts. He knows their state of mind and the controlling spirit of their transactions. Yet he doubts that he can impress the men of today with a like understanding. Unfortunately, the controlling spirits of this hour have not made themselves familiar with the atmosphere and actualities of 1877 in Georgia.

The state was just then fully clothed with new statehood, but not yet fully emerged from the threats of federal interventions and congressional coercions. Any constitution that the convention might make and the people adopt was subject to be declared "unrepublican" by a cabal of republican rioters in full power in congress and claiming constitutional authority to decide what it would "guarantee" to Georgia as "a republican form of government."

Can anyone wonder, then, that the men of 1877 engaged in their constitution-making with the greatest caution and with eyes single to the state's safety?

Because congress had already approved the "black and tan" constitution of 1868 the convention of 1877 varied it only in those things that could not be claimed to vitiate its republican character.

What the convention was created to do and did do was to anchor the interests of the true people of the state and ironclad them against the schemes of any future body of alien or native predacious adventurers.

* * * *

The One Chief Concern.

If one will read the debates in the convention of 1877 he will hear that old "Son of Thunder," General Toombs, declaring that the great reason why he advocated holding the convention and consented to sit in it, was to destroy the system of "state aid" to persons or corporations of any kind, by bonds, endorsements, gifts, or any form of special privilege. He wanted to build into the walls of the state constitution a steel vault for the "state's" credit that no legislative burglars or spendthrifts could ever again break into!

It should be remembered that he had then but lately returned from Washington city, where the supreme court of the United States had defeated his strenuous effort to subject the Georgia Railroad to certain exercises of the taxing power of the state.

The federal supreme court had decided that rights given to the railroad company in its charter from the state were "irrevocable" by the state.

That is the very fact that led General Toombs, who wrote the article by dictation to this writer, to insist upon the inclusion in the constitution of the now much misapplied statement that—

"The right of taxation is a sovereign right, inalienable, indestructible, is the life of the state, and rightfully belongs to the people in all republican governments, and neither the general assembly, nor any nor all the departments of government established by this constitution, shall ever have the authority to irrevocably give, grant, limit or restrain this right," etc.

* * * *

What About Irrevocably?"

Please mark that word "irrevocably." As General Toombs wanted the article adopted that word was lacking. He wished the prohibition to be unconditional, absolute, and as fixed as a law of divinity itself. He was mad over that supreme court decision. Those men in the convention who were not as enraged as he was took advantage of his particular obsession and persuaded him to put in "irrevocably."

Able men such as Judge James R. Brown, L. N. Trammell, General Lawton and others held that the insertion of that word limited the drastic prohibition and left open to the general assembly the authority and power to employ the taxing power of the state in cases that it might approve, provided the act was safeguarded as revocable at the will of the legislature, or the people.

And that explains why, to satisfy and pacify General Toombs and his followers, it was further provided that any chartered corporation in the state, seeking further rights or franchises should, as a condition of receiving them, agree to subject itself to all the requisitions of the new constitution. And that will be found in the document as it stands today.

* * * *

The State in Chains.

In order to guard against what might come, should congress again assume jurisdiction over the state, the constitution was intended to put as many chains as possible upon the power of usurpers or corruptionists to run riot with the legislation of the state.

Consequently the legislature of Georgia has ever since worked with ball and chains to its legs.

The constitution distrusts those who make it up at any time, as to the affairs of the state at large. It can always have its burgoo barbecue in matters of local and special legislation, and generally does have it.

But whenever it comes to attempting any liberal and progressive legislation, whether for the wisest state purposes, for education, good roads, good health, Confederate pensions, or what not, it rams its nose against a constitutional dead wall.

Those dead walls were highly desirable and defensive when they were erected, but 50 years of experience with them has shown their archaic and obstructive character.

They deny the right of the people to govern themselves through the representatives they elect every two years to execute their wishes and will. They are undemocratic and were intended to be so when they were built.

It will be my object in later articles to show from the records why the constitution had to be in the form that our departed fathers made it and why their sons, with more experience and examples, should now revise it and restore to the people of Georgia genuine democratic self-government.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

MODERN MANAGEMENT OF BROKEN BONES.

As a common illustration, let us take a case of Colle's fracture and see how it is managed by good surgeons today.

Colle's fracture is a broken radius. That is the main bone of the forearm near the wrist joint. This bone is apt to be broken when one falls on the palms, or when an automobile crank kicks back and catches the careless cranker's thumb (which should always be on the same side of the crank handle with the fingers, as a precaution against this accident.)

The more promptly the displacement is corrected (reduced) following the fracture, the better. But only the doctor should attempt to reduce a fracture. Unless there is some impediment the skillful physician nowadays gives the patient a little anesthetic and reduces the fracture painlessly and perfectly without giving pain. Moreover, if there is access to X-ray equipment, the doctor nowadays prefers to examine the fracture after reduction, as well as for diagnostic purposes in the first place, to determine that the displaced fragments have been put in perfect alignment and that the appliance or dressing is well suited to retain the fragments in correct position.

For the ideal dressing, a moulded plaster of Paris splint is now generally preferred to wood or metal or composition readymade splints. This moulded splint gives the patient the greatest comfort, because it is a perfect fit. It gives the fracture the best support for the same reason. Of course a soft padding is used between the splint and the skin.

Nowadays no well trained doctor "binds" splints on with tight bandages or by pressure otherwise maintained. On the contrary, one of the tests of a skillful surgeon is that he employs bandage or other retentive means merely to keep the splint in place, and therefore the bandage or straps or adhesive plaster never cause pain or discomfort by their tightness. The old timers seemed to think they had to use pressure to keep the fracture reduced. They were quite wrong, and often their zeal in that direction actually retarded healing and prolonged or prevented good recovery.

The modern doctor usually wishes to see the patient about 24 hours after first reduction, when the splint or cast is removed, the hand gently massaged and the fingers gently manipulated, then the splint replaced. This is repeated daily, with gradually increasing massage and passive movements of the fingers and thumb. About the fourth day the splint or cast is cut down to cover only a few inches at the wrist, and the patient is instructed to use his fingers as much as possible. Often electric treatment or diathermy is given with the massage at this time. The splint is finally removed at the end of ten days, or sometimes earlier, and only a bandage or adhesive plaster strapping about the wrist is kept on for support—chiefly moral support, from this time on. By this method most patients are discharged completely cured in three or four weeks, and are ready to put the injured arm to any accustomed use.

Much of the prolonged or permanent disability that followed such fractures under the old time method of treatment was due to the error of keeping the fracture "bound up" in splints for weeks without any attempt to preserve function.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Frightened Off Iodin Ration.

Recently, following a suggestion in your column I purchased a vial of tincture of iodin from a well known drug store, intending to take one drop a day for a month in each of the four seasons of the year, for staleness and dopiness and so on. On preparing the first dose I noticed on the label that it contained 94.4 per cent alcohol. Is it safe to use such a mixture internally? (S. T. T.)

Answer.—One drop of tincture of iodine contains about the quantity of iodin present in the much touted chocolate coated tablets of an iodin compound. As for the alcohol, a drop or less of alcohol well diluted can scarcely do any harm. Yes, I think the ordinary tincture of iodine (which we should now spell iodin) is safe enough to take daily, well diluted, for a month in each of the four seasons.

New Jersey Farmer Makes Annual Fortune Producing Vegetables

(From An Exchange.)

Probably you have never heard of Charlie Seabrook. He is a farmer in New Jersey.

In one year Charlie Seabrook raised vegetables worth a half million dollars on 1,200 acres of land.

This isn't a joke; it is a true story. Most of his output comes from 200 acres. He thinks that $1,000 is not too much profit to make from an acre of ground.

In one year he sold lettuce worth $112,050. During the same year he sold an average of $25,000 each of cabbage, radishes, spinach, potatoes, strawberries and cucumbers.

Seabrook worked on the theory that ordinary land does not get nearly enough water; that it needs a great deal more fertilizer than is ordinarily used and that four crops a year should be produced on the same land.

This is the way he invested his money. The first cost of the land was $150 an acre. Then he spent $300 an acre for irrigation by overhead pipes. Next he spent $370 an acre in fertilizing the ground.

On a single acre he put 100 tons of manure and from two to three tons of bone meal.

The total cost of the land was $820 an acre when he was ready for business.

But how that land did produce. He started with a little wornout farm and now has a paid-up capital of $500,000 on which he makes 20 per cent profits.

Seabrook doesn't call his land a farm; he calls it a food factory. He has put business methods into farming.

Speaking of Prohibition

BY ZOE BECKLEY

A series of informal discussions giving fresh viewpoints on the nation's most debated topic. Nationally prominent women will present the result of their own intelligent observation, their reasons for or against prohibition based on experience. Miss Beckley covers the country in these authorized interviews.

(Copyright, 1927, in All Countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Speaking of prohibition—and nowadays who is not?—the queerest quirk of the situation is that facts don't seem to be facts, and that figures fib.

The drys confound the wets with statements from bank presidents, labor leaders, life insurance companies, real estate dealers and prison officials.

Then the wets quote financiers, union heads, doctors, employers of labor and statisticians who immediately prove the exact opposite.

If you are a dry, you see dry. If you are a wet, you see wet. The drys marshal a host of imposing names; so do the wets.

The outcome of prohibition is something nobody knows. But public opinion is interesting, especially the opinions of women.

So, ladies and gentlemen, we have the privilege of presenting—

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT,

Of the Democratic State Committee of New York and prominent in club work and society.

An unqualified "dry," as Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declares herself, yet fully awake to the faults and failings of prohibition, this energetic lady fervently believes the law is a good thing for us and will lead to better things.

Both on her own account and as the wife of a public-spirited lawyer who was candidate for the vice presidency on the democratic ticket with James A. Cox in 1920, Mrs. Roosevelt has always had a wide survey of conditions, political and social.

She is a member of the women's activities committee of the democratic state committee for New York, and works at it. You will find her any day in her cubbyhole office at 15 East 50th street, New York city, busily immersed in affairs.

She will take time to say a word on prohibition because she feels intensely about it—intensely for it, but amiably and unfanatically so.

"I am for the eighteenth amendment," Mrs. Roosevelt says, "and while it works imperfectly, I don't want it repealed or modified for with all its faults, its virtues make it good.

Against Modification.

"If admitting light wines and beers would really lead people to drink low percentage beverages I would be for modification. But I'm not convinced. I fear people would still want gin and whisky, so bootlegging would go on just the same.

"Advocates of repeal insist that because prohibition forbids, it tempts people to violate the law. I think not to any great extent. There are more law-abiding citizens than the wets believe. In time we shall have general abstinence.

"Prohibition makes it harder to get alcohol. The younger generation will soon tire of the effort and of the risk of bad liquor. There is less drinking now among young people than there was among our fathers.

"It is the example of the parents that is so dangerous. I used to think schools and colleges had more to do with the habits of youth than parents. Now I am sure parents are the more powerful influence."

Less Drinking at Parties.

Mrs. Roosevelt went on to tell of certain parties she had attended where young and old meet year after year. The generation which used to be young is now the older generation. To paraphrase the adage about the state of Maine, one might say "as go these parties, so goes society." Mrs. Roosevelt insists there is less drinking at these parties than there was when she belonged to the younger generation.

"When I was a girl a certain amount of drinking by the men was taken for granted. Today many girls frown on it," is how she states it.

"There are always a few," she concedes, "who do a thing because it is forbidden. But the habit soon passes. College boys—largely because of lean allowances given them by parents even of ample means—will in time stop drinking. And girls will give it up because liquor is not enjoyed by them anyhow and after a few tryouts the fad will die."

Mrs. Roosevelt is sure the increased savings banks accounts to which prohibitionists point do not consist of "bootleggers' money."

"They are noticeably small accounts," says she, "in the names of working men, housewives clerks and the rank and file of salary-earners. A man once in our employ drank a great deal. He has altogether stopped since prohibition. He disapproves of the dry law on principle but has nevertheless 'stopped struggling' against it.

Wives Are Benefitting.

"He tells me he has a lot of money in the savings bank and adds with a cheerful grin, 'And I'm able to do more for Maggie.' His is a typical case, and the 'Maggies' everywhere are benefitting."

Regarding the working of the amended dry law in Canada, Mrs. Roosevelt is not optimistic. The Roosevelts have a cottage on an island off the northeast tip of Maine in Canadian waters. Canada is their neighbor and a few years ago Mrs. Roosevelt took her two youngest boys on a motor trip through the province of Quebec.

"The first thing they remarked," she related, "was the enormous number of signs advertising whiskeys, cordials, etc., which, of course, were totally absent from the United States. But what impressed me most was that my children saw there for the first time drunken men. They kept talking about it for days afterward. This may prove nothing except that one sees less drinking in the United States than where liquor is easily obtainable and the traffic legal.

"You may argue that while a few cannot drink without going to extremes, the vast majority do so in moderation and there are no ill effects, either to themselves or others. Drinkers think they are not obnoxious to others, or their example harmful, but most decidedly this is not the case!

"Personal Liberty" Impossible.

"Personal liberty? We cannot have personal liberty in a commonwealth such as ours. The policy of prohibition makes up a good part of our social philosophy. We must have a program of life, doing certain things and refraining from certain things, a program which produces best results to our neighbors as well as to ourselves.

"Society cannot be organized for the individual. The freedom of each must necessarily be limited by the freedom of all. One man's liberty stops where another's begins. We live so closely that every man's habit overflows, as it were, into another man's life.

"To my mind, the difference between prohibiting liquor and prohibiting coffee is that liquor CANNOT be taken without its affecting the poise of the drinker, whereas coffee can. Whether we realizes it or not, the drinks taken by one individual make his conduct just that much less safe, less sane, less useful than before. In one way or other he becomes detrimental to everybody he comes in contact with.

"This is why I am in favor of prohibition.

CLARA CLEMENS.

(Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitsch) daughter of Mark Twain, singer, social leader.

"I am opposed to prohibition because it impairs American character. A people naturally forthright and fearless have become furtive, disrespectful to law and cynical toward the motives which made the law possible."

A wee figure curled into a couch corner, reading, as we enter to ask what she thinks of the Volstead law. So little she looks in her big room, so fragile and spirituelle, that one bungles the polysyllables of "Madame Gabrilowitsch" and feels like saying:

"Hello, little Clara Clemens, how much you look like your daddy, Mark Twain!"

Madame Clara takes the question on prohibition quite amiably, but answers firmly in the words that open this interview.

"It seems a pity," she goes on, her eyes of a transparent brown like pools in October woods, wide and earnest, "for a frank and honest nation to have its fine progress stayed by a dispute that divides it into bitter factions and by a law that is ridiculed and flouted."

Says Law Is Ridiculed.

We told Mme. Gabrilowitsch we had been assured by many that prohibition has decreased drinking. She looked surprised:

"But where—how? I am not a society woman, but I have many opportunities to see the life and homes of the cultured and it is the same everywhere—a disregard of the law, general jokes poked at it, and the bootlegger in high repute as a benefactor of the community!

"Highbred Europeans, in sincere puzzlement, ask why we have such a law, and, if it is the majority's will, why do we break it? One may answer that the majority do not break it, but can this be proven? So far as I can see, no one pays attention to the eighteenth amendment except those who never care for drinking anyway.

"Facts are practically impossible to get. Both the drys and the wets present and distort fact until they prove nothing. It is like the Bible in that you can find anything you want in it—justification of war and of drinking; of total abstinence and of peace.

Thinks Wine Has Benefits.

"In this matter of the eighteenth amendment, all we really have to rely on is opinion. If mine is worth anything, I would say that wine used intelligently is one of the earth's good things. It tends, in many temperaments, to bring out the best."

We suggested the argument that because liquor is sometimes misused, it would be wrong to permit wine and beer, as they would open the way to hard drink; and that everybody should abstain from all alcohol for the common good.

"Why not," argued Mark Twain's daughter, "abstain from beefsteaks because so many people eat too much red meat? And from pies, pork and potatoes because they fatten, and thousands die each year from diseases brought on by adipose tissue?"

"When people are affected by alcohol they annoy and endanger others," we offered.

"Are there not laws to take care of those who interfere with their neighbors' rights?" she replied. "Meanwhile, if a tiny part of the money vainly spent in trying to enforce prohibition were used in educating young and old to the effects, physical and moral, of alcohol, we would soon have nation-wide temperance—which we shall never have under prohibition."

Suggests Changes.

"How would you have the law changed?"

"I think if the manufacture of pure wine was undertaken by the government and the product controlled in price, quantity and hours of sale, people would gladly give up strong liquors and turn in relief to light beverages that they knew were of quality.

"It is the tendency of the age to be intelligent in matters of health. We eat less than we used to, having learned the evils of gormandizing; we are more cleanly, more sensible in dress, in living conditions and in hygiene generally. We would never return to old-time habits of drunkenness if the ban of 'Thou shalt not' were removed.

"To me it is unfair to compare laws against murder, larceny, arson, bigamy, etc. with laws which forbid all drinking. It is unfair to the American people to assume they cannot develop enough character to meet the important problems of life. Habits that are held off through fear of punishment and not from an understanding of good and bad, right and wrong, are not eradicated; they are only exaggerated.

"The framers of the prohibition law do not realize what moral damage it has done. If we could see with the physical eye the harm done by an angry, fearful or hateful thought; if blood poured from the lip or the skin turned black we would find some way to rid the world of destructive thoughts. To make millions of people resentful and angry harms the national character. A more tactful law would abolish the saloon but provide for light alcoholic drinks under government control."

Miss Beckley's next interviews will present Judge Jean Norris, only woman magistrate in New York city, and Judge Mary M. Barthelme, Chicago juvenile court.

SPOTLIGHTING THE SOLONS

BY SAM W. SMALL

What Is Being Done, Undone, and Yet To Be Done in the Capitol.

It is stated that a joint resolution may be presented this week extending an invitation to senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, to deliver an address before the general assembly. Should such a resolution be offered it should be adopted without dissent. We can not know too much about the real "state of the union" and no man in democratic ranks is better equipped to tell us "who's who and what's what" than Senator Reed.

He is in constant request by democratic bodies all around the country and he never fails to enlighten them and stir their enthusiasm for a revival of militant, popular Jeffersonian principles. As a chaser of republican corruptionists and a caustic critic of the party in power, that performs particularly for special interests, Senator Reed is without a peer.

It would help all of us to be told of our national predicaments and of our duty to bestir ourselves to the great work of restoring rule to the people. Let Uncle Jim come!

That certainly was some "harricane" that blew into the department of agriculture Saturday when Commissioner Eugene Talmage entered as its new boss. But most of the removables there had premonitions that they were slated to move and took their exodus orders without unseemly agitation. The new commissioner was bountifully elected upon his pledge to do just what he did, and he promptly paid the pledge. Now he has the more difficult work of reconstructing the department so as to realize to the people the reforms that he convinced them are due and eminently desirable.

In a house of 207 members and every one of them wanting a particular committe assignment, the speaker has no jocund job in placing the pleaders where they wish to be. Necessarily the committees have to be overlarge in numbers and hard to keep in effective action. Some of those committees are large enough in membership to constitute a legislature of themselves.

Committee work is really the most important part of legislation. Hearings of interested constituents can be had, full and free discussion indulged and many impractical prospositions killed by adverse reports. But quick action by committees is most desirable.

* * * *

Representative Tyson, of McIntosh, offers one of the modern devices for accelerating legislation, in the proposal that the constitution be so amended as to provide that the general assembly shall hold a preliminary session of 20 days in which to organize fully and receive all legislative proposals, then adjourn to the fourth Monday in August, when it shall reconvene and remain until its business is finished.

That plan works in some other states admirably. It gives opportunity for members to sound their constituents on important measures, and economically expedites the work of the assembly.

The levying of a graduated tax on incomes for purely educational purposes is proposed by Representative Doyal, of Floyd. It is not at all a bad idea, provided it is enacted without any exemptions. The greatest objection that can be urged to an income tax is its usual inequity. Too often it is naked class legislation. It is emphatically such in the case of the federal income tax.

Education in Georgia needs all the money that can lawfully and justly be gotten for it until our state system rivals any in the union. An honest income, or general sales, tax would get it for us and hurt no one.

A recent national survey has developed that automobile accidents produce a loss on lives and property of $600,000,000 a year and that a very heavy percentage of that great loss is caused by drunken drivers! Hence the wisdom and timeliness of the proposal by Representatives Hooper, of Fulton, and Wilhoit, of Warren, to enact that every driver of a motor vehicle shall be specially licensed and that any driver found drunk shall have his license voided, or suspended. They can make that bill more effectual if they provide that the suspension shall be mandatory and for a full year. That is the rule in some other states.

The Confederate pensioners of the state will rise up and call Representative Smith, of Talbot, blessed, if he will insist upon the enactment of his bill to have their pension checks mailed to them directly, instead of being handled by the ordinaries of the counties. The present plan is a roundabout and often disagreeable way of getting the little pension, and is not essential to safe bookkeeping. The United States mails its pension checks regularly every month to reach the pensioner, wherever he lives, at his postoffice on the fourth day of the month. We can also let our pensioners have their small doles promptly at first-hand.

INDUSTRIAL GAIN FOR U. S. SHOWN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, June 26.—Statistics compiled by the Federal Reserve board in a comprehensive survey of business and financial conditions throughout the country indicate that industrial production increased in May and continued at a higher level than a year ago while distribution of commodities was in smaller volume than last year. The general level of wholesale commodity prices has changed but little in the past two months, according to the statistics which are to be published in detail in a forthcoming issue of the federal reserve bulletin.

A summary of results of the survey made public today shows that the output of manufacturers increased considerably in May, while production of minerals was maintained at the April levels. Increased activity was shown in cotton and woolen mills, in meat packing and in production of lumber. Output of iron and stel, nonferrous metals, automobiles and building materials after allowance for usual seasonal variations, is maintained at practically the same level as in April.

Since the latter part of May, however, production of steel and automobiles has declined. Total value of building contracts awarded continued slightly larger in May and in the first two weeks of June than in the corresponding period of last year. Production of winter wheat was estimated by the department of agriculture on the basis of June 1 condition at 537,000,000 bushels, or 90,000,000 bushels less than last year. Indicated rye production was placed at 48,600,000 bushels which is 20 per cent larger than the crop in 1926. Sales of retail stores in May showed more than the usual seasonal decline from the high April level. Compared with May of last year, department store sales were about four per cent smaller while those of mail order houses were slightly larger.

Demand for bank credit to finance trade and industry remained at a constant level between the middle of June and the growth in the volume of credit extended by member banks in leading cities during the period was in the holdings of securities and in loans on stocks and bonds.

At the Federal Reserve banks there was little net change in the volume of bills and securities between May 25 and June 22, the fluctuations during the period reflecting largely the effects of treasury operations. Discounts for member banks toward the end June were in about the same volume as a month earlier while there was a decline in the reserve banks' holdings of acceptances and an increase in their portfolio of United States securities.

Conditions in the money market were fairly stable throughout the period with slight advances in the rates on commercial paper and more recently on bankers acceptances.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!"

Lillian and Hortense

:: Light Opera Girls Perfect Twins, But Unrelated ::

Which Is Which? Who Know?

One of these girls is Lillian LeConte and the other is Hortense Elton but they look so much alike it doesn't make any difference which is called who in the picture. They are popular members of the Atlanta Municipal Opera company, which is presenting "The Red Mill" this week at the Erlanger theater.

BY PAUL STEVENSON.

Alike as the proverbial two peas in the proverbial pod are Hortense Elton and Lillian LeConte, two popular members of the chorus of the Atlanta Municipal Opera company, now appearing at the Erlanger theater. In fact, they are so much alike that people think they are twin sisters and during trying moments at rehearsal expect them at any moment to break out into sisterly little spats over whose dress the other has on or something like that over which only sisters quarrel.

Saturday night after the show a Tech sophomore rushed up to Lillian and began to spill a long spiel about loving her until the sands of the desert grow cold, or something or other, when Lillian held up her hand and stopped him.

"You mean all that for Hortense—she's over there," she said to the disconcerted soph.

Then Lew Morton, director of the show, shouted to Hortense, "Get up there and sing that song again and sing it loud," whereupon Hortense replied sweetly that he meant Lillian, because Lillian was the one that had the speaking part.

That's how much alike they are and they are no more kin than Mussolini and Babe Ruth.

They are the same size, have the same colored eyes and hair, each has ten fingers and ten toes, and both like maple-walnut ice cream with gobs and gobs of whipped cream on it.

Hortense and Lillian are students at Agnes Scott college and know all about binomial theorems, Latin declensions, Greek verbs, cutting chapel, making fudge after 10 o'clock, and things like that.

Now if there is a couple of good looking, hard dancing twin boys matrimonially inclined who are seeking two girls who look like each other enough to be taken for twins, they should go to see "The Red Mill" this week and Give Hortense and Lillian the once over.

They won't be disappointed.

Loss of Custody Of Child Causes Woman To End Life

Columbus, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—Following a court decision several months ago that deprived her of the custody of her 13-year-old daughter, Mrs. Annie Louise Wellborn, 37, was found dead tonight in the kitchen of her brother's home. A verdict by a coroner's jury found that she came to her death "from gas with suicidal intent."

Testimony was to the effect that her body was on two chairs and that her head was almost in the oven of a gas stove with the gas on in full force and the windows and doors closed.

A note, addressed to her daughter, Louise, and her husband, W. L. Wellborn, was found nearby, stating that "I cannot live without you."

JACKSON CHURCH TO INSTALL PASTOR

Jackson, Ga., June 26.—(Special.) The ordination and installation of Rev. A. Julian Warner, who recently accepted a call here, as pastor of the Jackson Presbyterian church, will take place on July 3. Rev. L. D. King, of McDonough; Rev. Malcolm Williamson, of Griffin, and Dr. William Huck, of Atlanta, will assist in the service.

Rev. Warner will be ordained and installed at the Jackson church at the 11 o'clock service and at Fellowship church the service will be at 3 o'clock.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

The pointer for today is:
BE NEITHER A BAD LOSER NOR A GLOATING WINNER.

There is no surer way in which a Bridge player can make himself unpopular than by being what is known as a bad loser. The player who complains continually about his bad hands and his rotten breaks, who alleges that he has forgotten what an Ace looks like and rarely sees a face card, is a far from agreeable companion at the table. Sooner or later you must encounter your share of bad luck—unless possessed of a temperament to stand it with equanimity, do not play Bridge. When your hard luck comes, receive it with good nature; crying over it does not change the luck, but it makes the bad loser unpopular with partner and adversaries alike.

We hear less about the bad winner than we do about the bad loser, although his gloatings are most objectionable; nd there is less excuse for him because he has nothing to irritate him. The player who acts as if holding Aces and picture galleries were either his birthright or the result of his extraordinary skill, who crows over his big hands, who slaps his winning cards upon the table or snaps the corner of them, or who—in any other way gloats or crows—is even more obnoxious than the bad loser.

When you are losing heavily, never mention your bad luck, refer to previous losings, or permit your face to wear the expression of a martyr; when you are winning to a noticeable extent, do not act like a superior being or assume a role of instructor, but by some comment acknowledge that you are receiving the lion's share of the favors of Dame Fortune.

The popular weekly tests and contests will be continued for a few weeks longer at least.

C. L. Smith, Brother Of Famous Atlantan, Passes at Cornelia

Cornelia, Ga., June 26.—(Special.) C. L. Smith, 84, died at his home here after a long illness. Mr. Smith was a brother of the late Jasper Smith, of Atlanta, who erected the "House That Jack Built" at Peach tree and Carnegie way.

Born in Monroe, Walton county, in 1842, Mr. Smith was the last survivor of a family of ten brothers and two sisters. He is survived by his wife and seven children, W. L. Smith, of Mobile, Ala.; Charles G. and Calvin L. Smith, of Atlanta; Mrs. Fannie Doren, Mrs. Pearl Campbell, Mrs. Modena Walton and Mrs. C. A. Hopkins, all of Atlanta.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR ALLEGED SALE OF YOUNG CHILD

New Orleans, June 26.—(AP)—After avoiding detectives for 24 hours, Mrs. T. P. Hodgins, midwife, who was charged in a juvenile court affidavit with selling a three-weeks-old baby girl, for $75, surrendered today. She was released on $2,500.

Arrest of Mrs. Hodgins is the result of nearly a year's investigation on the part of Louisiana Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children into the alleged widespread selling of babies, according to Miss Susan K. Gillean, executive head of the society. The midwife is formally charged with contributing to delinquency of a minor.

Purchase of the baby girl was accomplished through a woman operative of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children in answer to a newspaper advertisement. The welfare worker gave the midwife a check for $37.50, half of the price agreed upon, and was to pay the balance later.

The child, whose parents are yet unknown, was said to be the offspring of penniless flood refugees, according to Miss Gillean. The baby now is under care of the society.

DREW'S CONDITION "EXTREMELY LOW"

San Francisco, June 26.—(United News.)—The condition of John Drew was reported as "extremely low" this afternoon. For several days the 73-year-old actor, suffering from arthritis and rheumatic fever has been very sick.

NEGRO IS KILLED AS AUTOS CRASH

Failure to observe the boulevard stop at Lucile avenue and Lawton street was held responsible for the death early Sunday morning of Will Henderson, negro, who was instantly killed when the coupe he was driving collided with a coach driven by W. Y. Mason, of 432 East North avenue.

Mayson was arrested by Call Officers A. E. Davis and F. A. Turner pending a full investigation of the accident. According to Mayson's statement to police, Henderson, driving south on Lawton street, came into Lucile avenue without stopping for the boulevard, causing the collision.

Several other accidents reported Sunday at Grady hospital, where injuries were treated, involved the major injury of one person and the slight bruising and cutting of two others. C. B. Guard, 17, of 33 Bates avenue, had his collar bone fractured and lost two teeth in an automobile wreck, no report of which was made to police.

Albert Earl Johnson, 4, of 72 Bass street, was cut and bruised when knocked down by an automobile. W. H. Gainey, 48, of Valdosta, also received cuts and bruises in an automobile accident. No report of either accident was made to police.

Unknown Negro Dies.

An unidentified negro, who collapsed in a crowd at Morris Brown university Sunday during the course of colored York Rite Masonic ceremonials, died on his way to Grady in the ambulance of David T. Howard, undertaker. The body had not been removed from the hospital at a late hour Sunday night, according to attendants.

Flowers and Candy Deluge

:: NO BOND YET ASKED FOR MRS. WILLIS ::

Accused Sheriff's Widow

Greenville, S. C., June 26.—(AP)—Flowers, candy, special delivery letters, and telegrams expressing confidence of friends in this and other counties in Mrs. Ethel Willis, widow of the late Sheriff Sam D. Willis, for whose slaying she and Henry S. Townsend are being held, today poured into her ward at the Greenville county jail. She received numerous visitors during the day and seemed in almost a jovial frame of mind.

"My day will come," she reminded when mention of the charge against her was made by a friend.

No legal move to gain her freedom by bail had been made by defense counsel up to a late hour today and no activity in that direction was apparent. Solicitor J. G. Leatherwood declined to indicate whether he would resist motion for bond. Pointing out that a statement at this time would be premature.

Mrs. W. C. Gray, the widow's mother, remained at her side during the day and a number of relatives and close friends paid long visits. Streams of automobiles passed slowly on east Broad and Fall streets where the jail is located all today, with occupants craning their heads out in an effort to catch a glimpse of the prisoner.

Mrs. Willis spent her time in reading the numerous letters that have come to her from sympathizers, and the daily newspapers.

"She makes a model prisoner," declared Jailer Frank Christopher. "She never complains and asks no favors, no consideration."

SAFE AFTER JUMP FROM WINDOW, MAN ESCAPES OFFICERS

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 26.—(AP) Unhurt after a two-story leap from his residence here, N. E. Jones, former real estate promoter, eluded a score of police here and was free today after a night-long chase through prominent residential sections Saturday. Jones is wanted on warrants for embezzlement and misrepresentation with intent to defraud in connection with a number of land deals in which he is said to have accepted payments for property which he could not deliver.

Jones has been hunted since April 1926, and was seen here Saturday for the first time since his disappearance more than a year ago. Deputies say he leaped from a window as officers were entering the front door to arrest him. Blood hounds were placed on his trail without avail.

Buffalo trails

FOR miles they stretched across the prairie and up into the foothills, smooth, clearly marked, beaten hard as rock through the centuries by the hoofs of buffalo on their way to the salt licks.

When the railways came, and the engineers were confronted with the great bastion of the Rocky Mountains, these buffalo trails assumed a new significance. It was found that they always followed the easiest gradients, that they penetrated the mountain fastnesses by the most direct and practical route.

Buffalo trails became one of the greatest assets of the early railway builders. Time, money, energy, were conserved; a vast amount of fruitless pioneering and surveying was eliminated, by trusting to the infallible instinct which had led the herds along these obscure and little-known ways.

Advertising, like those old buffalo trails, provides a clear and unmistakable path among the perplexities of modern buying. It points the way to the goal of safety and sound value; it avoids the pitfalls of unknown and unreliable goods. By following the advertisements in this paper you are following the high road to true economy.

Make it a habit: follow the broad, sure trail of advertising

HOWARD (Feature Photoplays, Publix Stage Shows)—"The Tender Hour." "Sea Chanties" and new bandshow program.

METROPOLITAN (Feature Photoplays, Vitaphone)—"Husband Hunters."

RIALTO (Feature Photoplays)—"Time to Love."

ALAMO NO. 1—Western pictures and comedies.

ALAMO NO. 2—"Part Time Wife."

ALPHA—"Girl Shy."

CAMEO—"Knockout Reilly."

TUDOR—"The Cyclone Ranger."

NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSES.

CAPITOL VIEW—"Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

PALACE—"The Winning of Barbara Worth."

PONCE DE LEON—"The General."

TENTH ST.—"The Man on the Box."

WEST END—"The Gorilla Hunt."

Erlanger.

"The Red Mill" (comic opera). Atlanta will find tonight that it has a new basso in the comic opera company at the Erlanger theater who can sound his A's along with the deepest voices that ever shook the rafters in a local playhouse, not barring the Metropolitan Opera company.

He is Charles Galagher, who has the rich comedy character of the burgomaster in Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill," second production of the comic opera season which opens at the Erlanger tonight. Mr. Galagher was basso of the St. Louis municipal summer opera company during its first three seasons.

Rialto.

"Time to Love." Spiritualism, duels and balloons figure prominently in "Time to Love," Raymond Griffith's Paramount comedy, at the Rialto theater this week, opening today. The high hat comedian feigns death in a fake duel, returns to his sweetheart as a spirit and is later carried up with her in a balloon being used as a target for anti-aircraft guns. Vera Voronina and William Powell are featured in this French farce by Alfred Savoir. Frank Tuttle directed from Pierre Collings' scenario.

Loew's Grand.

Vaudeville and Pictures. The gorgeously beautiful act, "Rosemont Mardi Gras," presented by Cunningham and Clements, one of the foremost dancing teams in vaudeville will appear as the headline attraction on the new vaudeville bill which opens at Loew's Grand today. Other acts on the bill are Anita Pam and company in a comedy playlet; Bernard Weber, Williams and Clark and Bob and Lucy Gillette. The Loew feature picture is the latest production of Marion Davies, "Tillie, the Toiler," with Miss Davies in one of the greatest of her many roles.

Keith's Georgia.

Vaudeville and Pictures. Nick Lucas, "the crooning troubadour," who sings the latest song hits to the accompaniment of his guitar, begins a week's engagement at Keith's Georgia theater today. Lucas is best known in all parts of the country and Europe for the many phonograph records which he has made. This is the first opportunity Atlanta theater patrons have had to see and hear him in person. On the screen Florence Vidor and a startling cast of principals will be seen in "The World at Her Feet," a Paramount picture.

Howard.

"Tender Hour." If you were a beautiful young American girl in Paris and you were tricked into thinking your sweetheart dead and your father "sold" you in marriage to an old man you loathed and then the boy you loved came back to claim you, how much would you pay for one "Tender Hour?" For your greatest entertainment thrill see Billie Dove and Ben Lyon in First National's "The Tender Hour" at the Howard this week. John Murray Anderson's "Sea Chanties" will be the Publix stage presentation, and "Waddy" and his Gang will offer "Minstrels of 1927."

Metropolitan.

"Husband Hunters." Heralded as the real screen hit of the summer season, "Husband Hunters," a Tiffany Gem production, starring Mae Busch, Walter Hiers and Charles Delaney, will be the big feature screen attraction at the Metropolitan theater this week. A Lloyd Hamilton comedy and the Metropolitan News and Views will also be shown. The Vitaphone program will offer John Charles Thomas and Vivienne Segal in a singing duet from the musical play, "Maytime." The Volga Boatmen, a double male quartet, will be the other offering on the Vitaphone.

Ponce De Leon.

"The General." Buster Keaton's uproarious comedy will be shown today and tomorrow at the Ponce de Leon theater. In this, the best of his comedies, the frozen-faced comic has a story that deals with the famous Andrews raid during the war between the states, when northern soldiers stole a locomotive near Marietta, Ga., ran through the southern lines, burning bridges and destroying track. Buster has the role of a southern boy who saves the day.

Theatrical Folk Will Pay Tribute To Michalove

Following the opening of the new Capitol theater at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Atlanta theatrical people will assemble at the Atlanta Athletic club at a banquet honoring Dan Michalove, local amusement magnate, who was recently appointed general manager of Universal theaters, the chain of which the new Capitol is a member.

All theaters and film exchanges will be represented at the banquet, which is a good-will testimonial to Mr. Michalove, one of the most popular figures ever to be connected with local amusements.

George Allison, of the Fox Film Exchange, and president of the Atlanta Film Board of Trade, will preside at the banquet as toastmaster.

PELS BEAT CHICKS.

New Orleans, June 26.—(AP)—The Pelicans squeezed out a victory over Memphis this afternoon at Heinemann park, by the score of 4 to 3. Three runs by the New Orleans team in the fourth inning and another in the sixth seemed to give them a safe lead, but Memphis came forward with a dangerous spurt in the seventh and eighth which was stopped in time to save the game for the local team.

BARONS ARE VICTORIOUS.

Nashville, Tenn., June 26.—Birmingham extended their Southern league record for consecutive wins to nineteen straight here today by nosing out the Vols by a 5 to 4 count.

Yaryan's homer in the seventh with Bigelow on was the winning factor from the Barons' standpoint. At least two runs were presented the Barons in the earlier stages of the game and a batting rally tied it in the sixth, Yaryan's homer knotting it and providing the winning margin.

BEARS WIN CLOSE ONE.

Mobile, Ala., June 26.—Errors by Ostergaard and Washburn in the eleventh inning of the final game of the Little Rock series today gave Mobile the victory, 3 to 2. Williams singled in the final inning with two out and scored when Washburn booted Knode's grounder and then threw the ball wild to the plate. Dumont and Morris were hit hard at times. The fielding of Olivares was sensational. He stopped a terrific grounder that halted Mobile in the eighth and again in the ninth, with the winning run on third he made a great catch of a line drive.

Pirates Win Series Opener From Cards

St. Louis' Best Hurlers Bombarded by Pittsburgh Sluggers.

St. Louis, June 26.—The Pittsburgh Pirates waged a fierce batting attack against the best of St. Louis' pitchers and took the series opener from the Cardinals, 9 to 3, here today. The Pirates' victory strengthened their hold on first-place position by one and one-half games over the Cardinals.

REDS WIN EASIL.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 26.—Cincinnati won the first game of the series with Chicago by 8 to 5 today. Cincinnati won mainly because Luque refused to crack under some very loose fielding by his teammates. Cincinnati had five errors, four of which counted in the five runs scored by Chicago.

ROBINS TROUNCE GIANTS.

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 26.—Brooklyn turned back the Giants by 7 to 1 today, Dazzy Vance yielding only six hits, two of which were bunched in the ninth for New York's lone score. Benton, the Giants' starting pitcher, was wild and gave way to Songer after four innings. Felix led the Robins' attack with three safeties in five times up. About 25,000 fans attended.

Goslin and Myer Slap Out Homers in Final Game.

Washington, June 26.—Washington made it three straight over Boston today, 8 to 7, all of its runs coming in the fourth inning. Goslin and Myer connected for homers, the former also getting a double and the latter, recently traded to the Red Sox by the Senators, a double and a single. Johnson, who started for Washington, was relieved in the fifth, but was given credit for the victory.

ATHLETICS, YANKS SPLIT PAIR.

New York, June 26.—The Athletics split a double-header with the Yankees today before 61,000 fans, Philadelphia triumphing in the opener by 4-to-2 and dropping the second by 7-to-3. Jack Quinn held the New York sluggers to six hits and struck out Lou Gehrig three times in the first game.

The Yanks grouped four hits, together with a base on balls and two errors in the first inning of the closing engagement, for five runs and coasted along to an easy victory. Gehrig propelled his 22d home run of the season off Pate in the seventh. Moore limited the Mackmen to five hits. Babe Ruth was out of the lineup due to trouble with his right knee.

Between games, Schenectady admirers presented Catcher Grabowski, of New York, with a $1,300 check and a life membership in the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The New York club announced an estimated attendance of 115,000 thus far in the series with the Athletics.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT TIGERS.

Chicago, June 26.—Chicago drove Earl Whitehill off the hill in the seventh inning today and defeated Detroit 9 to 7. The visitors chased Thomas to the showers in the sixth inning. Connally, his successor, pitched airtight ball thereafter. Whitehill blew up in the Sox' seventh and Barrett's triple cleared the bases which were filled. Lil Stoner went to the rescue but was touched for one hit and contributed a wild throw himself which helped put Chicago in the lead.

INDIANS, BROWNS DIVIDE PAIR.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 26.—The Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns split a double-header and the series as well here today.

In the first game, Uhle returned to form and bested Stewart, 2-to-0, in a pitchers' battle in which both allotted four hits. Buckeye was batted from the box in the second game, the Browns winning, 7-to-3. Fonseca accepted 13 chances at second base in the final battle.

Nunnally Defeats Honor Farm, 3-1

Scoring two runs in the final inning, the Nunnally nine broke a 1-to-1 tie and defeated the Honor Farm pastimers, 3 to 1, Sunday afternoon out on the farm.

The farmers drew the first blood when they scored one run in the opening inning but the visitors came back with one in the fourth and knotted the count. The two markers in the final frame gave Nunnally the game.

Lookouts Come From Behind To Beat Crackers, 10 to 6

Cavet, Rogers Routed By Chattanooga Crew

Eight Runs in Eighth Inning Give 'Noogans Sunday Game—Mooney Hurls for Chattanooga.

Chattanooga, June 26.—(Special.)—Apparently forgetting the customary procedure when Crackers and Lookouts tangle, the Atlantans grew careless here this afternoon in the opener of the series and the tailenders blasted out a 10-to-6 victory in one big inning.

Pug Cavet, who had weathered the first seven innings without undue difficulty, and Tom Rogers, who shoved himself into the gap when Tiller got into hot water, were the victims of that eighth inning rampage.

Young Jim Mooney, portsider, who fought his way almost alone through four troublesome Cracker innings, when he was harassed on all sides by the enemy and listless fielding of his mates, richly deserved the victory. His clean single off Gallatin Tom provided transportation for the tally which put the Lookouts ahead.

Cavet and Rogers showed exactly opposite reactions to the turning of the Lookout worm in the big inning. Pug had been breezing along and simply kept on breezing until things began popping. Rogers, hurriedly warmed up, was riled at the prospect of having to work on such a warm afternoon, and when the Lookouts clapped him for two hits before he got started he became fuming mad. He shot one at Ed Lewis and the midget trotted down when the ball caught him on the hip. Tom, still more peeved, then made the mistake of putting one in the slot for Dixie Carroll and the ball game was lost.

Haas, Welch Lead.

Haas and Welch led the Cracker assault each with three hits in four trips. All Welch's were singles, but Mule's collection included a homer and double.

The Crackers counted three without unmost east in the first. "One Away Jim" Johnson, after making a fine effort, got under Cueto's pop, but the ball twisted out of his glove. Welch singled and Rhiel scored the two runners with a triple to right, later scoring himself on Haas' single. The Lookouts, on singles by Niehaus and Johnston and a force play on Chapman, scored one in the second.

Mule Haas manufactured a sizzling single into a home run for the fourth Cracker tally. He rounded first when the drive bounded past Tangeman in center and then made the rest of the circuit while they were getting the ball back through the infield, both throws in the relay being off color. Tony Defate's homer in the local half of the same inning dropped just out of the park in left. The other two Cracker runs came in the seventh. Caret beat out one through the box. Zoeller walked and Cueto's sacrifice moved the runners up, both scoring on Welch's looper back of first.

Lookouts Attack.

The Lookouts went berserk in the eighth. Carroll strolled and pulled up at third on Defate's double which hit two-thirds the way up the ence in left. Al Niehaus dropped one out of sight behind the left field fence and the fans began to get interested. Jimmy Johnston hit and when Chapman did the same, Tillar Cavet walked off the hill, giving way to Tom Rogers. Tangeman popped an attempted sacrifice but Turner drove in Johnston with the tying run, singling sharply to left. Chapman rounded third when Welch's peg got by at the plate, but Tom Rogers recovered and threw Chappy out sliding in. Mooney's single scored Turner from second with the run which put the locals ahead. Rogers, mad as a wet hen, hit Ed Lewis and he and Mooney scored when Carroll poled out a triple over Zoeller's head. Madder than ever, Gallatin Tom steamed in a wild pitch and Dixie came in with the tenth run.

GEHRIG RUNS HOMER STRING TO 22 SUNDAY

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, the Yankees' first baseman, who is right at the heels of his home run comrade, Babe Ruth, slammed his fifth circuit drive of the week today and unless the Babe's bum knee loosens up, Gehrig may soon catch up with him. Ruth has 24 home runs to date. Columbia Lou's drive today was his 22d.

Except for the activity of the New Yorkers, circuit drivers were comparatively scarce this week in the American league, but the National league sluggers were back to their usual seven-day total of about 30. Hack Wilson, of the Cubs, kept his lead, adding two, the same as Ruth. The next four in the Heydler circuit's list of leaders got one apiece.

Barons Run Streak to 19; Lead Southern

New Orleans Comes Next in Order During Week's Play.

Memphis, Tenn., June 26.—(AP)—The continuous winning streak of the Birmingham Barons and the stellar pitching of Pelican hurlers featured the playing in the Southern association during the week ending with games played today.

The Barons chalked up their 19th straight win today. New Orleans was scored on in but two games during the week, losing one and winning six.

On the other hand the losing of the Memphis Chicks dropped them far down into the second division. The Chicks and Lookouts were at the foot of the class this week, each having lost six and won one. Memphis broke a losing streak of 11 straights Friday.

Nashville Fades.

Nashville dropped from the limelight during the week by losing five out of seven games. Atlanta had better than an even break with four wins and three losses. Mobile stepped out of caste with four wins and two losses, while Little Rock reversed that order with two wins and four losses.

The superior Barons cracked out 75 hits for 48 runs and allowed opponents 23 runs, statistics showed, after games of today. They had 12 errors charged against them, but offset that with five of the nine home runs made during their eight games. Chattanooga and Birmingham played the only tie game of the week.

Nashville had 23 runs on 50 hits, allowing 24 runs against them, but played the best game in the field with only six errors. The Crackers were tied with Birmingham for hits, having made their 75 safeties count for 38 runs, while the opposition was making 40 tallies.

Pels Score 22.

New Orleans had 22 scores on 54 hits, while the opposition made only nine runs. The Pelicans had five shutout games to their credit. Memphis was the only team to score against the chunkers of the New Orleans crew.

Mobile had 70 hits which accounted for 32 runs and their opposition made only 23. Memphis had 20 runs on 57 hits and allowed 35 scores. Little Rock broke out with 55 hits for 25 runs, but allowed 30 runs to be scored by other teams. Chattanooga could make only 27 runs off 68 hits, and with 15 errors to aid their opponents to pile up 51 runs.

The following table shows how the teams played during the week, including games played today:

HAWK-EYE-INC SPORTS

·BY · DICK · HAWKINS·

Coming Right Along.

If you are one of the ones who gasps with wonder at the increasing trend toward athletics in the rising generation and if you are one of the ones who wonders why track, field and swimming records are toppling almost daily despite the fact that the croakers both professional and amateur are sobbing about the decadence of the race, if you are one of these wondering ones take a tour of the municipal pools in Atlanta some Sunday or other day and watch the youngsters at their play.

One doesn't need to be on the downhill side of this earthly journey to remember when a municipal pool was unheard-of and to remember when the child who was unlucky enough to live in a country where "swimmin' holes" were rare had to confine his swimming to an occasional vacation trip.

Now what do you find? Thousands of children—young and old—swarming in Atlanta's municipal pools on these blistering days, accumulating a fine sunburn of which to boast to the neighboring kids for months to come.

But is a coat of sunburn all the kids are getting for their play? Unquestionably no. For the sake of illustration let us tell you of a little tow-headed chap of perhaps six years whom we watched at Piedmont park today.

He stood in the shallow water—shallow but reaching nearly to his neck—near the slide and watched the older boys and girls coming down that machine into the water with a splash.

He looked with a troubled expression. The others were all doing it but he had never tried. He glanced away a few yards to where his father was playing with his infant brother in the water near the bank. He made sure that his father was not looking and went to the ladder that lead to the top of that slide.

He went up step by step. At every halt the expression on his little round face pictured plainly his fear. He gained the top and hesitated. His father had not yet noticed that he was on the slide. He didn't call to that parent to watch him for he was fighting his youthful battle alone. He hesitated then closed his blue eyes and slid down that slide to the water. He went under and up again in a flash to look back at the slide with a smile of triumph.

Does this little narrative mean anything except that a youngster had a bit of fun at Piedmont? It means infinitely more. It means that a youngster conquered a fear as real to his mind as the first zoom of a bullet to the untried soldier. He made a bit of character this afternoon.

And that incident does not stand alone. There are hundreds of other youngsters, some older and some younger, making physical and mental character as well as health in the municipal pools of Atlanta today and every day.

Norfolk, Va., June 26.—(AP)—With an entry list of 106 players, the annual amateur championship tournament of the Middle Atlantic Golf association will get under way tomorrow morning at the Norfolk country club, and will be in progress through Thursday. Some of the best golfers in the district which includes Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia and Virginia will battle for the title.

Shreveport, June 26.—(AP)—By defeating Leory Ward of New Orleans, 3 up and 2 to play, Edwin McClure, local "kid golfer," won the amateur golf championship of Louisiana today. The former state title holder, Fred Lamprecht, of New Orleans, was eliminated in the semi-finals by McClure. The Louisiana champion is only 15 years old.

SANDLOT GOLF TOURNAMENT STARTS TODAY

More than 100 ambitious satellites of Bobby Jones will tee off at 9 o'clock this morning in the qualifying round of Atlanta's first city-wide sandlot golf tournament, sponsored by the American Legion and the city park department. James L. Key golf course will be the battleground.

A handsome silver loving cup, offered by the park committee of city council, will be awarded the winner in the finals to be played Tuesday and other prizes including clubs, golf balls and others of value will be awarded to the different winners.

Any youngster in Atlanta under 17 years of age may compete by presenting himself at the Key golf course at 9 o'clock this morning with a 25-cent entrance fee and similar amount for green fee.

Jim Harrison, of the American Legion athletic committee; L. L. Wallis, general manager of the city park department, and Sam Saltzman, director of the Sandlot league, will be in general charge of the tournament with the assistance of other members of the legion committee.

FRISCH PASSES COBB, HORNSBY; LEADS "BIG 8"

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Frankie Frisch, of the Cardinals, the leading base stealer in the major leagues with 21 to his credit to date, jumped into first place on the "big eight" baseball march during the week, with a batting average of .385. Hornsby trailed with .379, while Ty Cobb was on the Rajah's heels with .363.

Cobb was not the only player of the reputed "high salary" men of the big-time circuits to be sidetracked. Eddie Collins, his teammate on the Athletics, was used sparingly by Connie Mack. Babe Ruth also weakened over the week-end from a knee injury. Long George Kelly, of the Reds, has been out of the game since his appendicitis operation several weeks ago.

The rankings of the players, including games of today, follow:

City Tennis Tourney Quarter-Finals Today

Upset Marks Sunday's Round of Matches—Grant Continues March.

BY BEN COTHRAN.

Players in Atlanta's city tennis tournament continued their fast play Sunday. This afternoon they will begin the quarter-finals.

One match remains to be played in the third round between Britt Knox and Bourn. All other matches have advanced to the quarter-final stage. With one exception, all aspirants to the city tennis title are seeded players. The one exception is Bill Brannon—a youngster who has caused considerable consternation among the experts.

The other players are Jack Mooney, Jack Simpson, Malon Courts, Bryan Grant and Harry Gault.

Brannon Causes Uupset.

Brannon caused another upset Sunday when he eliminated Sid Yancey in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4. Brannon caused his first upset eliminating Z. A. Rice, a seeded player, in the first round.

All matches Sunday were played on the courts of the newly organized Atlanta Tennis club, and the tournament will be finished on these courts. There are four in all, and they are among the best in the city.

Jack Mooney was extended to the limit Sunday afternoon in order to take his match with Louis Enloe. Enloe flashed a splendid back hand and was good at a back line game. But his best play came when he went into the net. Mooney won in straight sets, but he was forced in every game, and was given a hard fight by the Techster.

Grant Marches On.

Bryan Grant continued his march through the tournament by defeating Jack Boykin, 6-1, 6-1. This youngster, who causes so much grief among the older players, has advanced steadily and is a good bet for the semi-finals, although he encounters an obstacle in the form of Britt Knox this afternoon.

Play today will begin at 4:30 in the singles. Doubles will start at 5 o'clock.

One of the best matches in the tournament so far is looked for when Jack Simpson and Harry Gault battle for the right to go into the semi-finals.

Gault Advances.

Gault advanced to the last eight by dogging out a 6-4, 6-3 victory over J. T. Chambers Sunday afternoon.

Semi-finals have been reached in the boys' tournament by two players, and the remaining quarter-final matches will be run off this morning. The semi-final matches will also be played today.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS.
Second Round.

Enloe defeated Cheatham, 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

for the greatest NASH Announcement

This is the busiest age ever known. But it knows the wisdom of taking time for enjoyment.

Busy smokers of today select Camel as their favorite smoke

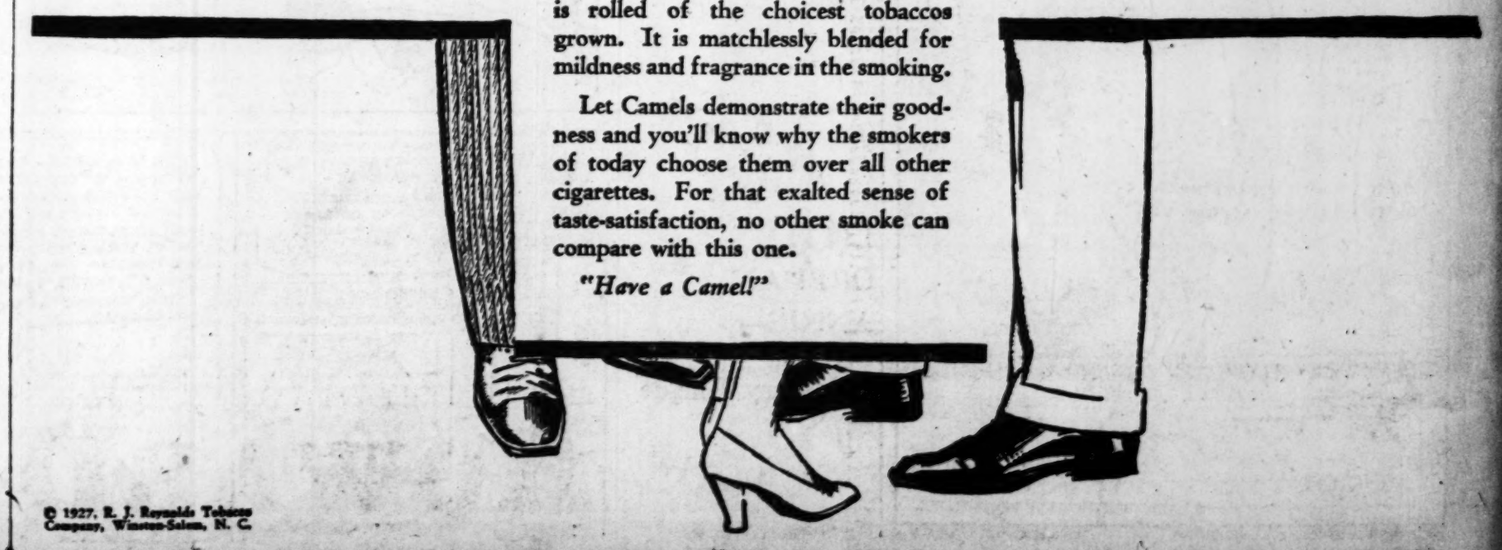

PRESENT-DAY people, the fastest workers of all time, claim their right to enjoyment. And they choose Camels for the utmost in smoking pleasure.

Camel is made to please and delight the modern, experienced smoker. It is rolled of the choicest tobaccos grown. It is matchlessly blended for mildness and fragrance in the smoking.

Let Camels demonstrate their goodness and you'll know why the smokers of today choose them over all other cigarettes. For that exalted sense of taste-satisfaction, no other smoke can compare with this one.

INSTALLMENT I.

THE VAGABONDS.

Hark, hark! The dogs do bark!
The beggars are coming to town.
Some in rags, and some in tags,
And some in velvet gowns.

They came to Grantwick, a vagabond crew, tricksters all, unless one could except Doris Ferguson, who was the baby of the gang and served their purposes with such splendid innocence. They came straggling in to Grantwick in couples and singly, rogues, beggars and vagabonds, with scarcely any money, but a very good excuse.

One of the richest men in England lived most of the year in Grantwick where he owned miles upon miles of steel and iron foundries, and a long string of cotton mills and factories where by-products were utilized to profitable results. This rich man's name was Sir Adrian Shale and he had recently—six months before—been made a widower. Lady Shale had died suddenly abroad, a beautiful woman who had so much to live for that her death was little short of a tragedy. It was said that her husband was a desolate man, indeed, for he had loved her deeply. He was not an old man; scarcely middle aged, in fact, being still a year or two on the right side of forty. He had made a great fortune, won a title, and lost his beloved wife while still in the late thirties. So at that comparatively young age a great deal of life was behind him.

The gang, the vagabond crew, knew quite a lot about Sir Adrian Shale; much that would have surprised him had he been aware of the "beggars coming to town."

None of the crew was in rags and tags, however. They were, all of them, so to speak, in velvet gowns or the equivalent of that smooth richness. Handsomely turned out, you may be sure, although it had taken almost their last penny to accomplish it.

There came, first, pretty little Mrs. Winchell and her daughter, Doris; a youngish widow and her baby-eyed daughter of eighteen. Doris Ferguson had passed for fourteen quite recently; she could also pass for twenty; but on this occasion she was eighteen, which was about her proper age.

Mrs. Winchell, whose real name was something quite different—she had had a long list of names in her busy life—brought a letter of introduction to Grantwick's most important citizen—to Sir Adrian Shale—from a lady of wealth and fashion in London, a great friend of his late wife's.

This letter, in all sincerity, begged Sir Adrian to be kind to Mrs. Winchell and help her to find hospitality in Grantwick. Mrs. Winchell was minded to settle down in his city, would be looking for a suitable house, etc. Any assistance which Sir Adrian could give that helpless fair-haired little widow would be appreciated by the late Lady Shale's great friend.

That happened on a Monday—the arrival of the advance guard—a Mrs. Winchell and her daughter, Doris, coming to the imposing Hotel Metropole and taking a fine suite of rooms.

On Tuesday Mrs. Winchell delivered her letter of introduction via the post, together with a prettily worded one of her own. On Wednesday Sir Adrian Shale called upon her and was given tea in the sitting room of her suite. He left with the definite impression in his mind that in the persons of Mrs. Winchell and Doris, Grantwick had achieved something well worth while.

On Thursday a handsome young man turned up at the Hotel Metropole. For the duration of this particular story his name was William Gibbons, and he had come to Grantwick—borrowing a line from Kipling and slightly altering it—"the lord knows why!"

But, after all, a young man of wealth and leisure can go where he pleases, and more particularly will he do so if he happens, recently, to have met a pretty girl whose mother intends to settle down in a fine city like Grantwick. According to Mrs. Winchell, this good looking William Gibbons was both wealthy and leisured, and he certainly seemed to be in love with Doris.

On Friday Uncle Charley arrived for the week-end, but he stayed longer than that. Uncle Charley, Charles Montague, was on this occasion Mrs. Winchell's brother, a retired naval man. Very much retired, as a matter of fact. Uncle Charley was small and quiet, with crinkly reddish hair and a crinkly reddish face, soft, slender hands, and a faint but friendly smile. Everybody liked Charles Montague.

So now they have all come to town, the vagabonds, and spread themselves at ease in the spacious Hotel Metropole; little Mrs. Winchell in black velvet and a string of what looked to be remarkably fine pearls; slim, blue-eyed Doris, generally in white lace for the evening; handsome Will Gibbons always turned out so well, whether it were for golf or dancing, and shy Uncle Charley Montague, who would sit in a corner and let other people talk to their heart's content. Rogues and vagabonds, with just one modest shred of reputation amongst the four of them.

It was Doris who possessed the solitary fragment of respectability, and she was wondering how much longer it would be possible for her to retain it. She was the only member of the crew who had not been in jail so far.

They had caught her very young, indeed, and the story of her catching reflects some kindness of heart on the part of Mrs. Winchell and Uncle Charley. Doris had been a charity child, turned over at the age of 14 to the untender mercies of a female fiend masquerading in the guise of a country curate's wife. Doris had been beaten and starved and worked almost to death as a general slavey in the curate's house.

And then had come Mrs. Winchell and Uncle Charley on a visit to the curate, who happened to be Uncle Charley's brother. The worthy couple at that time was enjoying a brief holiday; they were just themselves, a happily married pair on a visit to a relative who, for various reasons connected with "business," Uncle Charley had not seen for a long time. The curate did not know that his brother was a vagabond or worse, but he did know that his own wife was a fiend.

He said: "Charles, you and I are both Christians, I hope—but my soul is in danger. I can't hide it from God, and presently I won't be able to hide it from the parish, that my wife is bent on killing that poor child we've got working here. I can't stand by and see it done. But I'm a weak man. Emmie is too much for me. Take the child away with you. Your wife is a human being, and whatever happens to Dora Ferguson it can't be so bad as it is for her here."

And that was how it happened. Out of the frying pan into the fire.

Doris, Mrs. Winchell insisted upon calling her; Doris would be a better name for their work—more picturesque. And frightened Dora did not mind. She was only too glad to escape from the tyranny of the curate's home and she was very happy with her adopted parents. They didn't make a slave of her. They didn't starve or ill treat her. They were a jolly couple, curiously domestic and simple, considering everything, and there was a certain little house tucked away in a corner of Westminster which spelled home to them.

Plans for Apple Harvest Festival Are Maturing

Georgia's forthcoming apple crop will be of excellent quality, according to officials of the Consolidated Apple Growers exchange, at Cornelia, Ga., which will handle the output of orchards in Habersham, Haralson and Polk counties.

Caldwell Porter, who recently was elected secretary, treasurer and manager of the exchange, has already assumed his duties and will push the work of the organization both in marketing and in arranging details for the big apple harvest festival that is planned for the fall, officials stated. Mr. Porter is associated with his brother, C. R. Porter, prominent business man of Rome, Ga., in the Porter Brothers Farm corporation, which owns large orchards in Habersham, Haralson and Polk counties. The Porter orchards at Esom Hill, 14 miles from Cedartown, which embrace nearly 10,000 acres of apple lands, are the largest in the southern states. The corporation also operates the noted Yonah orchards at Cornelia. Caldwell Porter being resident manager.

J. Frank Beck, Atlanta capitalist, who was reelected president of the Consolidated Apple Growers exchange, said Saturday that the exchange has begun its new fiscal year with better marketing prospects than have prevailed at any time in recent years.

Label Is Guarantee.

"The exchange label on a box of apples is now generally recognized as a guarantee of the contents of the box and buyers are accepting our apples more freely without question," said Mr. Beck. "It has taken five years to do this, but the result is of first importance to the growers having membership in the exchange, as it gives a premium in price for their product."

Mr. Beck said the exchange was complimented the past season on the improvement in appearance of its package, which, he pointed out, was "a better box, made of good material, and as attractive a label as can be found anywhere."

Another encouraging feature of the past season to growers has been the good keeping qualities of the apples, Mr. Beck stated. "It has been a surprise to me to find varieties we expected to keep only in storage until about Christmas show up well several months later," he said. "All our varieties compare favorably with western apples in the condition they same out of cold storage in the latter months of the season."

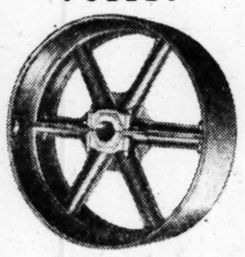

Need Cold Storage.

Mr. Beck called attention to the fact one of the greatest needs of the growers is adequate cold storage facilities at Cornelia, where the many varieties of apples grown can be separated and reassembled in grades and sizes. From the stock, orders can be filled for one box or 10 cars, as desired by buyers, he said.

"The growers' exchange deserves the hearty financial, as well as moral, support of the banks and business interests of the apple section," said Mr. Beck. "Our orchard properties are the most valuable asset in Habersham county; in fact outside of general farming, the orchards are the largest and most valuable industry in the section. The large investments of the apple growers give value to the land generally, while the monthly payrolls of the orchard companies regularly distribute large sums of money to labor as well as to the merchants and banks."

SERVE-YOURSELF SYSTEM CONTINUED BY PURA WATER CO.

The Pura Water company is continuing its "Serve-Yourself" system for homes which it inaugurated last year and is seems to be growing more popular all the time. Their fleet of water trucks cover the entire city and suburbs every day, and delivery of water can be made at any time, anywhere, but where there is an automobile available, the delivery cost can be saved by the customer if he will drive by their centrally-located plant at 100 Piedmont avenue, S. E., and carry the water home himself or have the chauffeur do so. The plant is within four blocks of Five Points, center of the city, on a paved thoroughfare and convenient to all sections of the city.

The Pura company has recently been appointed distributor for Benscot Mineral Spring water in the Atlanta district and receives the water fresh every day from the Bensco spring near Lithia Springs, Ga. This water has been dispensed at soda founts and sold at drug stores, in the city and suburbs for thirty years. Who has not heard the familiar demand, "Give me a lemon, lime and Benscot?" It is a very high-grade saline drinking and table water, and is frequently prescribed by physicians for organic disorders.

Thousands have used and like Benscot water in years past, but for the reason or another have not used it in the last year. In order to get acquainted with these old customers and prove the quality of the water at the present time, the distributors will give a five-gallon demijohn free to any old customer who has not bought in the last year, if it is called for.

This company continues to produce and deliver Pura Water (triple distilled) and High Rock Spring water, with water cooler service. They also produce pure lithia water. The distilled water can be bought at drug stores in small quantities and at service stations.

POSTMASTERS CAN GREATLY HELP IN TAG DISTRIBUTION

Lawmakers who are assembled for their biennial grind have found at least one piece of legislation, once agitated by auto owners, that will be entirely unnecessary—that of county distribution of tags.

The reason is this: Every postmaster in every county in the state is practically an agent of the motor vehicle department under the law as it now stands.

As a means of enabling purchasers to obtain quick authority for the operation of their cars, the legislature once provided that registrations for motor vehicles could be paid in post-office money orders, and that the receipt given by the postmaster for a postoffice money order, payable to the secretary of state and mailed with the application for registration, should be as good as a temporary permit to operate the car and should be good for 15 days.

The effect of this law, it is shown, was to make every postmaster an agent of the motor vehicle department authorized to issue 15-day permits in the form of receipts given for postoffice money orders, payable to the motor vehicle department. Under the law, which is said to be one of the best of its kind in any of the states, the owner of a car goes to the postoffice, buys his money order, and for 15 days fromathe date stamped on the receipt given him, the receipt is authority to operate his car on the public highways of Georgia.

Not only that, but by this arrangement, the owner is put to no trouble whatever, because his tag is sent to him by the motor vehicle department by parcel post, and it is delivered by the mail carrier at his home, or his place of business.

The law under which the tags are purchased, has worked satisfactory and auto owners generally are said to be pleased with it, it was stated by legislators. The legislature subsequently made a further change in the law by providing that auto fees could also be paid in postoffice money order, express money order, cashier's check, or in money.

MOTHER AND SON ARE FOUND DEAD IN ROOM OF GAS

New Orleans, June 26.—(AP)—Following discovery of Mrs. Nellie Stringer, 26 years old, and her 7-year-old son James, dead in a gas-filled room yesterday, the coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide in the case of the mother and homicide for the son. The bodies were discovered by Mrs. James Caudle, in whose apartment Mrs. Stringer and her son had been staying.

Mrs. Caudle told police that mother and son had come to New Orleans several days ago from Shreveport, La., and that they were originally from Hialeah, Fla., at which place Mrs. Stringer suffered a broken jaw in an automobile accident. Depression over a slight disfiguration resulting from the accident was given by Mrs. Caudle as a possible reason why Mrs. Stringer committed suicide.

Many Beautiful Homes Are Being Built Around Atlanta

An automobile drive around Atlanta at this time will show that an unusually large number of fine homes are being built outside of the city and in nearby residential subdivisions.

While this new work is not confined to any one section yet put all this new construction work done down in figures the volume would show that Atlanta in the very near future is going to climb over many other cities in population.

One of the most pleasing facts about the building of these many new homes is that the great majority of them are being built of the best materials, and are modern in every way, with each possessing an individual distinctive type of architecture that makes it a welcome acquisition to the already large number of beautiful homes in and around Atlanta.

In the building of fine buildings many factors play an important part, money, location, taste, skill and ability. While the owner and the architect make it possible for the builder to build, it takes them all working together to turn out the neat home, or other fine building.

Sheet Metal Work.

When it comes to the sheet metal work needed to be done on a fine home or modern building Atlanta has many splendid firms in this line. Probably one of the best known is the R. F. Knox company, of 575 Marietta street. Mr. Knox, the head of this firm, has been in the sheet metal work nearly two score years in Atlanta and many a fine piece of metal work has been done by him or his men during that long time.

Some three years ago he built his own building and specially equipped it to do everything that was to be done in the sheet metal line; as well as to bring out some new patents Mr. Knox had in mind that was to be made of metal. The Knox patented dust blower, Knox patented garage chutes, and his latest, the Knox Ever-Tite Flashing Lock, which is making a tremendous hit with the architects on account of the great saving of labor in applying it, and its certainty to keep out the water wherever used.

Some of the recent homes Mr. Knox has done the sheet metal work for are George F. West, where all the metal work was done, and also an artistic slate roof of variegated colors. He also did the metal work for the John Ray Patillo fine home and here also a nice slate roof was put on as well as all the sheet metal work on the George Moore new home and that of C. O. Bickelhaupt where he put on a slate roof, and did all the metal work.

Copper Work.

Mr. Knox is a great believer in copper for a guaranteed long time job, and does a great amount of copper work for all the leading architects. One nice copper job just completed was done at the new Packard building on Peachtree opposite Forrest avenue.

This firm has always been noted for the fine metal ceilings they furnish, and a crew is kept busy at this kind of work in and out of Atlanta; one of the latest jobs was for the Woolworth store at Griffin, Ga.

Mr. Knox has surrounded himself with a fine organization of expert workmen and they take great pride in their skill, and any architect or builder in the south that wants good sheet metal work done in a workman-like manner can do no better than confer with the R. F. Knox company.

All Sorts of Things Are Quickly Made by Dixie Seal Company

The word stamp covers a multitude of articles—most folks think first of postage stamps—then a rubber stamp—and the ones that deal with machinery have in mind the various things that are stamped out of metal.

It happens that the Dixie Seal and Stamp company, of Atlanta, handles a machine for affixing postage stamps—they also make rubber stamps (their equipment for this work being one of the largest in the south)—in recent years their metal stamping department has grown tremendously—today they have six motor-driven presses that are kept busy making metal cotton tags, brass and aluminum checks and plates, fruit picker tags and badges, washers of brass, lead or aluminum.

Their machine shop is equipped to make any kind of a stamping die, from the simplest to the most complicated—one recently finished does four operations and completing a job that formerly required four separate handlings. This machine shop, with J. L. Moore in charge, is considered one of the best in this section.

Mr. Moore is a specialist in the making and repairing of fine tools and instruments. He has helped many inventors put their ideas into workable form. Whenever you have anything in the stamping line call on the Dixie folks—they can probably help you.

Weekly Business Review

Bumper Crops Everywhere Insure Increased Business

BY M. D. GLEASON.

There is a spirit of optimism in the air now blowing over the south due in a great measure to the splendid rains that have fallen pretty much over the entire state southeast in the past two weeks.

Reports of splendid crop conditions are coming in from everywhere and travelers and experts on crop and fruit conditions report that everywhere they go they see some of the best crops they have seen in the south in many years.

When cotton, corn, fruits and melons are all looking their best here in the last week of June with plenty of moisture in the ground to last for many days now, with Old Sol up there on high sending down his warm rays, then regardless of what tight-wad say and constructionists may endeavor to do they only stand in their own light and the tide of prosperity will wash over them.

Enthusiastic Over Outlook.

In addition to our own observation during the past two weeks of travel and reports from state agriculturist and statisticians e conferred with eminent men who are in touch with the pulse of the farm situation in the entire south and each one of them spoke with the greatest enthusiasm of the splendid outlook and conditions of the general crops, fruits and melons at this time, and predicted that 1927 would go down in history as the greatest money crop year in history of the south.

C. A. Cobb, editor of the Southern Ruralist, one of the greatest farm papers in the world, publishing something like 450,000 papers each issue, has just returned from a 20-day trip through five states west of Georgia, and he states the farmers everywhere but in the Mississippi valley had their crops clean of weeds and grass before the rains came, and now the cotton and corn was the best he had ever seen it at this time of the year.

In the Mississippi valley section, continued Mr. Cobb, they had considerable grass, but the people in those sections are working like they never have before and due to our mild southern climate helped by plenty of warm sunshine there is still time enough for some good crops to be made.

Fruit Situation Encouraging.

State Entomologist Lee Worsham, who has been visiting the fruit sections in several parts of the state, stated Saturday that the fruit growers most everywhere were more encouraged than they have been in several years.

While the number of cars of peaches will not reach as high as some former years the quality of fruit will be better, and the prices obtained on the whole very satisfactory.

The pecan crop, continued Mr. Worsham, will be light for the early varieties due mostly to a dry spring in the southern part of the state, but the later varieties will undoubtedly come along well.

Peanuts will be extra good and the later melons are doing fine everywhere—and as for the tobacco crop, Georgia is going to have a bumper crop this year and one that will bring a great sum of money into the state.

T. H. Ball, district manager of the Frick company, says: "Our traveling men report general farm and crop conditions the best they have seen in years at this season, and that the grain crop was harvested with more care and saving this year than ever before.

Small Grains Needed.

"We were especially pleased to see this, for the more that the farmers look into the many advantages of raising the various kinds of small grain just that much more will it make our southland more prosperous, and there is no sane or common sense reason why the south should send millions and millions of dollars to remote sections for to buy flour when we have some 33,000,000 acres of land laying out in this state alone."

With modern machinery like we have today, two or three men can plow, sow and reap grain over the same lands that require a large force of colored cotton hands and the farmer or large landowner that is still bemoaning the fact that his former best "hands" are now residing in south Chicago, Detroit, or Pittsbugh, had better step out and join the progressive farmers of the day and take a joy ride behind a good tractor, pulling a plow and keep his bread money in his own community.

A. I. Steinheimer, president of the Dairy and Farm Supply company, stated we are having an unusual number of buyers in to trade with us from all parts of the southeast during this month and, I have never heard so many of them speak in such glowing terms of the various crops in their different sections.

Crop Cleaner.

What pleases most of them the most is that they had their crop cleaner than usual and when the good rains did come they knew they did not have to worry very much from now on, for we are now in a season when crops that have had half a chance up until now will make a good crop with a limited amount of work.

These splendid rains have also done much to help the cow, hog and hen movement, for good pastures are to be seen everywhere and food for the cow, hog and hen will be raised at very small cost to their owners on the farms.

Harry L. Eisenbise, one of the national officers connected with the mortgage and loan department of the Maccabees, who has been in the south the past five or six weeks, says: "My duites require me to cover much territory, and I came into the south in the western part of Arkansas and have been up as far as Norfolk, Va., then all across Virginia to Roanoke, twice across the Carolinas, and have seen much of Georgia by train and auto and from what I could see, the entire south has been so greatly aided by the recent rains that the crops look fine everywhere I have been. I also went into your big apple orchards and I never saw such fine looking fruit in my 24 years' travel from coast to coast over this broad land of ours."

Fine Pasture Lands.

A. L. Burdett, advertising manager of the big International Harvester company, when seen Saturday said: "I have been out about ten days this month and I have never seen as good pasture lands anywhere as we are having in the south this year."

"When we would come upon some farm where dairy cows were, we would see cows that were showing the advantage of having good feed and requiring very little time or expense from their owners.

"This should be a good money-making year for every man raising any kind of stock. If a man's own pasture lands are not adequate for his stock, some of his immediate neighbor farmers may have much land laying out and both can profit by turning in the cows or other stock in fields that are fenced sufficient to protect growing crops.

"Here is one thing that we wish every farmer in the south to know—that is, we have gone to a great expense to gather the most up-to-date statistics on every phase of farming and dairying and we will gladly send to any farmer or stock raiser some very accurate information on the particular subject he is the most interested in at this time.

"The south is coming into its own more than ever this year and we want to do our part. Write us to the International Harvester Company, 508 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga."

SUNDAY SEES NEW RECORD IN CROWDS SET AT LAKEWOOD

Sultry weather Sunday and a desire for amusement on the part of hundreds of Atlanta citizens brought record crowds to Lakewood—the south's greatest amusement center.

Music lovers heard the 122d Infantry band, Georgia National guard, directed by Maurice A. DeGarland, in one of the most varied programs thus far offered this year. Many of the numbers were played by request.

Lakewood today will begin grooming itself for entertaining 30,000 expected to visit the park July 4. Automobile races in the afternoon in which Sig Haugdahl, speedway ace, will defend his title as the champion dirt track driver of the United States, will be a special feature. At night a special pyrotechnical display, which Southeastern Fair association officials declare will be the biggest and most novel ever seen in the entire south, will be set off by experts from the factories.

Popularity of Lakewood has mounted continuously since the gates of the park were swung open for the year about two months ago, J. Oscar Mills, secretary of the association, which operates the park, stated Sunday. Hundreds of family and organization picnics have been staged. Sunday schools have elected to go to Lakewood in preference to other resorts for outings and Atlanta public school alumni associations have selected the famous play center for meetings.

HOLMES INSTITUTE OPENS NEW TERM

GIRL DIES IN POOL OF HEART ATTACK

News of the death of Alice Myers, 14-year-old member of the Girl Reserves of Wilmington, N. C., who was stricken with a heart attack Sunday morning on entering a pool at a camp near Brevard, N. C., has been received in Atlanta by friends here.

The girl's head had not gone under water when a life guard reached her, it was reported. Doctors and Red Cross workers labored for more than two hours to restore her heart action, but their efforts were unavailing. The body will be taken to Wilmington for interment.

CAPITOL FEATURES

A quintet of stellar attractions will open the brand-new Capitol theater tonight with Reginald Denny starred in the screen attraction, "Fast and Furious." The lady with the Spanish-effect hat is the famous Cissy Loftus, who will headline the bill of Pantages vaudeville on the stage. On the upper right is Ethlyne Claire, who will appear in person Monday night and will also be seen in a "Snookums" comedy on the screen. Miss Claire is one of Atlanta's own. The smart-looking lady on the lower left is Lucille Alexander, soprano, who is featured on the stage bill. The comical-faced gent is George Lane, of Lane and Byron, on the stage bill.

Woman Urges Court to Rule Man Is Husband

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, June 26.—What will be the fate of Yrsa de Constantinoviach, the pretty girl, broken on the wheel of love and cast aside by Michael Edwin Paterno, millionaire builder?

The resumption tomorrow of the trial of her suit to legally declare Paterno her common-law husband and the father of her daughter, Marie Yrsa, 8, finds Yrsa on the witness stand matching her wits against Nathan Burkan, the builder's attorney.

So far she has emerged unscathed, despite the clever cross-examiner's barrage to prove she was only a mistress, the companion of other men. And if she should win, her victory would mean sorrow to anther woman, an innocent victim of the triangle.

In 1924, eight years after Paterno is alleged to have met and wooed the fresh arrival from Denmark, he married. If the jury recognizes the prior claim of Yrsa, Mrs. Anna Marie Paterno would no longer be his wife. Their relationship of three years to the contrary, she would lose all her rights and status of the mate of the man she married.

Paterno asks the jury before Supreme Court Justice Gibbs to give due consideration to the fact that in 1922 Yrsa released him from all claims for the sum of $15,500. Her answer is that at the time she was destitute and the builder took advantage of her lack of finances.

FORMER COLLEGE STUDENTS DEFEND TWO PROFESSORS

Morgantown, W. Va., June 26.—(AP) Eighteen former students of Marshall college came to the defense today of Professors A. S. White and Watson Selvage, recently dismissed for expressing their personal beliefs in Marshall college classrooms.

The students, now attending West Virginia university, petition the state board of education to the give the professors a "thorough and just hearing."

Denying allegations that the professors had been "too liberal" in their teachings, the petition asks how the state board can reconcile discharge of "two of the broadest and finest members of the Marshall faculty" with academic freedom.

AMERICANS KILLED WHEN AUTOMOBILE LEAVES PRECIPICE

(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Sarajevo, June 26.—Edgar D. Aldrich, American newspaperman and his wife, Ellen, were killed this afternoon 7 miles from here when their automobile crashed over a precipice.

Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich left Belgrade at 9 o'clock this morning for Sarajevo and the accident occurred late this afternoon. The chauffeur is in the hospital but is not expected to recover.

Mr. Aldrich was born in Bloomington, Ill. He and his wife left America 10 months ago on a tour of the world, and having just completed a visit to China and India, were doing the Balkans.

CURE FOR WORLD ILLS CALLED WORK OF BUSINESS MAN

Stockholm, June 26.—(AP)—On the eve of the fourth general meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce, Owen D. Young, who heads the American delegation, which reached here this afternoon, declared that the businessman after all is best fitted to devise the treatment and cure of the world's economic ills.

"The major problems of the present moment are economic, and nobody can do more to help in their correct solution than the businessmen of the world," said Mr. Young.

PIONEER SUFFRAGIST IS DEAD IN VIRGINIA

Harrisonburg, Va., June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Kate Seymour Paul, 80, widow of U. S. District Judge John Paul and pioneer woman suffragist in Virginia, died at her residence here last night after a long illness.

Mrs. Paul served with distinction as one of the two Virginia members of the board of women managers of the Columbian exposition at Chicago in 1893. She was active in D. A. R. and Confederate circles.

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow morning.

RADIO SERVICE JOINS AMERICA TO PHILIPPINES

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Direct radio service between the United States and the Philippine Islands was inaugurated tonight when General J. G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America, filed radiograms in New York addressed to Manual Quezon, president of the Philippine senate, and to Colonel C. H. Nance, vice president and general manager of the Radio corporation of the Philippines.

The messages were carried by wire from New York to San Francisco, and then sent over the direct radio circuit to Manila.

"Greetings to the people of the Philippines," read General Harbord's message, "upon the occasion of the inauguration of your first direct communication service with the United States. It is my sincere hope that the opening of this new channel of communications will be instrumental in furthering Philippine-American commerce and in promoting a free exchange of culture and understanding."

Recent advances in the method of short-wave transmission made communication with the Philippine Islands possible, the radio corporation announced.

THREE BOYS TRY TO DROP DYNAMITE IN SMOKESTACKS

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—Poor marksmanship of three boys, who stole eight sticks of dynamite and then attempted to toss them into the smokestacks of passing Illinois Central passenger trains here, probably saved the lives of many persons last night.

The boys, Michael Rizzo, 14; Dante Falco, 12, and Carl Lapsen, 12, took the dynamite from the Wars' show at Soldiers field, broke them into quarters, stationed themselves on a footbridge over the tracks and dropped piece after piece of the explosive toward the trains' smokestacks. All went wide of the mark.

Tiring of this pastime, they lighted a fire, placing a stick of dynamite in it. Thinking it was not going to explode, Rizzo attempted to remove it. His hand was torn off and the Falco boy was cut severely on the face.

The police hurriedly went over their route of mischievousness and recovered 16 broken sticks of dynamite on the railroad right-of-way.

WEST VIRGINIAN HELD AS SLAYER OF INVALID WIFE

Morgantown, W. Va., June 2...—(AP)—George Wade, 55, was in the Monongalia county jail here tonight charged with slaying his wife, an invalid, with an iron pipe. Mrs. Wade, who had been ill for 10 years, died in a hospital today of a fractured skull.

"I have been going to do it for 20 years—I should have done it long ago," police quoted Wade as saying after his arrest.

The woman was found dying in her bedroom by neighbors who were summoned to the house by Wade's 10-year-old daughter, Edith. She told police she had been awakened by a scream and ran into her parents' room and saw her father strike her mother several times with the pipe.

The couple had been married 22 years.

Get Your Share of This $50,000 Protection Offer

Fifty thousand dollars for your protection—with countless other thousands to back the fund up in every emergency.

Are you in line to get your share of cash in event you would be singled out for disaster and bills pile up and up and up?

More than $50,000 in cold cash has been paid by The North American Accident Insurance company, of Chicago, on claims of Constitution readers under the terms of the company's famous $7,500 travel accident policies issued through this paper.

It has been paid at a time when it was needed most. It has brought help to widows and hope to orphans and comfort to those who were suffering and their incomes abruptly halted.

Why not get your share of this protection—the cheapest and most efficient ever tendered a reading public. All you have to do is to be a reader of The Constitution between the ages of 16 and 70. For the insignificant sum of $1.25 a year, the famous $7,500 travel accident insurance policy will be issued to you, and it will grow in value at the rate of 10 per cent per year for five years.

The policy provides for payment of sums ranging downward from $7,500 in case of death resulting from certain accidents; heavy cash payments for permanent injuries, and $10 weekly indemnity for disability resulting from the stated accidents.

A train wreck, a crash of automobiles, the speeding wheels of an onrushing car or a burning building may leave you a victim of the ever-growing wave of accidents today.

In this paper appear regular advertisements supplying full details of the great offer. Watch for them.

This $7,500 travel, $2,000 auto and $1,000 pedestrian accident policy is issued only to subscribers of The Daily and Sunday Constitution and immediate dependent members of a subscriber's family between the ages of 15 and 70 at $1.25 per policy per year.

One who is now taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution or will subscribe for same through carrier in Atlanta or suburbs, through an out-of-town carrier, or dealer, paying for the paper weekly, monthly or otherwise, is a subscriber and is eligible.

Those taking The Daily and Sunday Constitution, by mail, either through a postoffice or rural route delivery, for one year, are eligible by paying $1.25 per year policy above the subscription price.

In sending application for insurance the applicant must state name in full, also give age and occupation. If beneficiary is desired, full Christian name must be given and the relation of the same to the insured.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR B. E. CORLEY

Funeral services for B. Edward Corley, 53, 790 Edgewood avenue, N. E., formerly of the bond department, Adair Realty and Trust company, who died late Saturday night at a private sanitarium following a brief illness, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the chapel of Awtry and Lowndes company. The Rev. S. B. Cowan will officiate and interment will be at Newnan.

Although in poor health for some time, Mr. Corley's death was a surprise to his friends. He was born in Atlanta and spent his entire life here, where he was well-known, particularly in opera circles. Mr. Corley was a guarantor of the first Metropolitan opera season in Atlanta, and had been an enthusiastic patron ever since.

Surviving are his wife and five sisters, Mrs. A. Huddleston, Mrs. H. F. Harrell, and Misses Annie, Alice and Myrtice Corley, all of Atlanta.

Only two hours to Macon on NON-STOP train via SOUTHERN, leaving at 12:25 noon. —(adv.)

COLONEL LINDBERGH'S LIFE AND ADVENTURES

No. 13 By A. J. Wilde

(Copyright, 1927, by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Final Week's 'Right-Ad' Event Gets Under Way This Morning

Six days hence some reader will be richer by $300; a second reader by $200; a third by $100 and a fourth by $50.

These are grand cash prizes in The Constitution's $4,000 amateur ad-writing contest, which will be awarded next Friday night by a board of 10 impartial and disinterested advertising experts.

The nine special prizes listed below will also be awarded at this time. Only those ads marked "for special prize" will be considered for these extra awards.

Winners of the $50 cash and 120 merchandise prizes for the week just closed are being determined this afternoon and will be made known Wednesday. Here are the judges: Miss Leonora Anderson, advertising manager of the J. P. Allen company; Charlie Crane, advertising manager of the Keely company, and J. J. Blanks, general manager of Ed Matthews and company, 82 East Alabama street, S. W.

In this contest everyone's chance of winning is the same. Ideas control awards. The Constitution has done away with the possibility of unfair competition by barring newspaper employees and professional ad-writers.

Every contestant who has one ad for each of the 24 contest firms to his credit by the close of the contest is eligible for the grand prizes. Make yourself eligible by writing for those companies for which you have not already prepared ads.

"Tips" for contestants follow:

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

It is inspiring to see the orderliness and cleanliness that prevails in the gigantic local warehouse of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. The attractiveness of this warehouse is alone matched by the inside of an A. & P. store itself.

While an endless variety of foodstuffs is found at the A. & P. warehouse, the quantity stocked in each item is far less than one would imagine. It seems that just enough to meet the week-to-week demand is carried. The principle of quick turnovers, which is responsible for the low prices that prevail in A. & P. stores, dictates that food products must be kept on the move from the cars to the warehouse, and from the warehouse to the stores. The principle as expressed in the old axiom, "a running brook is always fresh," prevails throughout the entire A. & P. system and insures the freshest of foods in addition to the lowest of prices.

Atlanta & Lowry National Bank.

The Atlanta and Lowry National bank is not only the oldest "national" financial institution in the cotton states, but one of the largest. Keeping abreast of the times, it offers every recognized form of banking service, and while no account is too large for it to handle, it welcomes small accounts, from which large ones are likely to grow.

The wise man goes to his banker for advice and counsel about financial problems or contemplated investments. Officers of the Atlanta and Lowry are closely in touch with Atlanta and Georgia affairs, and their judgment is at the service of any customer.

Commercial accounts, savings, safe deposit vaults, all are departments of the Atlanta and Lowry, while the Trust Company of Georgia, affiliated with the bank, provides a complete trust service, acting as trustee, guardian or executor, handling high grade securities and selling real estate. There is a marked advantage in handling all banking affairs under one roof.

Hemlock 3500 Tire Co.

At the Hemlock 3500 Tire company the term, "service," takes on a new meaning. But one would guess as much from the name of this company, for Hemlock 3500 is an open invitation for you to call from anywhere at any time. It doesn't make any difference if you have tire trouble outside the city limits, for one of the Hemlock 3500 trouble trucks will go to you as long as you are within reaching distance.

The "hurry-up" service this company renders at its station, 266 West Peachtree, is just as worthy of the efforts of amateur ad-writers as the Hemlock 3500 Tire company's extraordinary road service, for it has played as important a part in bringing this institution the marked success it has had in the one short year it has done business here in Atlanta.

Special Prize Awards.

Rules on special prizes follow:

1—Special prizes will be awarded at the close of the contest.

2—In competing for the special prizes mark "For Special Prize" across the face of your ads.

3—To have the same ad compete for the regular weekly prize, a duplicate copy must be submitted.

The Prizes.

Twenty-five dollars offered for the best ad on Silverman's Bohemian Rye Bread (Note: Only ads to which the Silverman trade-mark is attached will be considered. The trade-mark is found on the wrapper.)

Twenty-five dollars offered by the Pedigree Milk company for the best ad to which a Pedigree milk bottle cap is attached.

"Sophie Mae" offers $25 special prizes of best article describing their "Superb" package, stating why it is the highest value on the market and naming its three best pieces.

A $250 non-transferable down payment on lot offered by Avondale Estates for the best special ad.

Any woman's purse or woman's unfitted hat box carried in stock, or any man's Gladstone bag up to $50 in value offered by Rountree for the best ad on its business.

Portable phonograph offered by Phillips & Crew for the best ad on its business.

"Priscilla" model twin beds, made by the Southern Spring Bed company, offered by Duffee-Freeman for the best ad on "Blue Ribbon Beds."

Twenty-five dollar Parker desk set offered by Jacobs' Pharmacy company for the best ad about Parker pens and pencils.

Twenty-five dollar pair of Gorham sterling silver candlesticks offered by Maier & Berkle, Inc., for the best ad on Gorham solid silver.

Rules of Contest.

1—The contest may be entered at any time merely by sending an advertising idea to the "Right-Ad" editor, The Constitution.

2—Everyone may compete except professional ad writers and newspaper employees. This is an amateur contest for people who have never written advertising.

3—Write about any one advertiser or as many as you like. You may win any number of prizes.

4—Each ad submitted must be on a separate sheet of paper. Write on one side of the paper only—put your name and address on the other side. Put as many ads as you want in the same envelope.

5—The contestant is under no obligation of any kind.

6—A different group of judges will be selected and announced each week from among Atlanta advertising men.

7—The names of all prize winners will be published each week and some of the prize-winning ads reproduced.

$4,000 in Cash and Prizes.

One hundred and twenty individual prizes will be awarded weekly—five prizes for the best ads on each advertiser.

The four grand prizes of $300, $200, $100 and $50 will be awarded for the four best ideas of the entire contest.

MISS RUTHERFORD, ILL AT ATHENS, REPORTED BETTER

Athens, Ga., June 26.—(Special.)—The condition of Miss Mildred Rutherford, noted Georgia educator, historian and author, who is ill at a local hospital, was reported as improved late today. It was stated that her general condition was better and that she had retained nourishment during the day. Her condition is considered critical, however, it was stated.

Miss Rutherford, member of one of the most prominent southern families, was taken ill while attending a meeting of the Children of the Confederacy at Elberton Friday. She is a former president of Lucy Cobb institute here and was for a number of years historian-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She is also the author of many pamphlets and books dealing with the south and Confederate history. It was she who compiled the lists of the things Georgia is "first" in.

GENERAL OBREGON HITS 'WALL STREET'

Mexico City, June 26.—(AP)—General Alvaro Obregon, former president of the republic, has made formal announcement of his candidacy for the presidential office again. In a public statement, he makes known his position on all questions affecting the republic, both internally and externally, particularly the religious question, relations with the United States and investment of American capital in Mexico.

His words generally are construed as meaning that he will not alter the fundamental position of President Calles on the religious and oil and land laws and that as a whole his administration will mean a continuation of all the important policies of Calles, whom he hopes to succeed in 1928.

General Obregon refers to both "Rome and Wall street," as being headquarters of the enemies of the Calles government. He makes a distinction between what he terms "honest" American capital and that of "Wall street," which, he asserts, "seeks to promote crisis and conflicts in and with Mexico."

He promises to facilitate investments of all American capital willing to cooperate with Mexico in the development of the country, but cautions that he will prevent investments by "imperialistic Wall street capital," charging that an attempt may be made again to provoke a government crisis and armed conflict in Mexico.

Leaders of Drys Plan to Punish Wet Candidates

Washington, June 26.—(AP)—If both major parties nominate wet candidates or adopt wet platforms at their next conventions, Wayne B. Wheeler, of the Anti-Saloon league said today, "We will meet the situation and demonstrate to such candidates or to the party with a wet platform that there is punishment after death."

"The Anti-Saloon league," he said, "will use its well established and successful methods in the coming political campaign. That means the drys will be organized in both political parties to nominate satisfactory candidates for president and congress and on state and local tickets. If we fail in one party, we shall ask the voters of that party, except in states where the law prevents, to scratch the ticket and vote for a good man on an opposite party ticket rather than a bad one on their own.

"To vote a straight ticket with bad candidates on it is crooked politics. There will be at least one of the national dominant parties that will have a satisfactory candidate for maintenance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. There is a possibility that both will be satisfactory. Then the league keeps hands off.

"If Governor Smith is nominated and the drys in the south would rather vote for an independent dry democratic candidate for president than a dry republican, this would give them a chance to register their protest. The party collar is worn more lightly than in years. We won the fight for constitutional prohibition by the use of these independent methods. There will doubtless be no need of a third party candidates this year on this issue."

FIVE OIL WELLS LOST IN BLAZE IN CALIFORNIA

Longbeach, Calif., June 26.—(AP)—Five oil wells were destroyed, four others were considered doomed, and many others therafened in a fire which broke out in the Alamitos Heights field near here tonight. It was believed that the damage would exceed $1,000,000.

STRESEMANN GOES TO NORWAY CAPITAL FOR NOBEL AWARD

Berlin, June 26.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Stresemann has gone to Olso, Norway, to receive the Nobel peace prize. He was accompanied by his wief and will deliver the Nobel prize oration on Wednesday.

Political and dilplomatic circles in Berlin anticipate a significant speech by the German foreign minister and believe he will avail himself of the opportunity to make an impressive plea for international peace and disarmament from the Nobel prize rostrom. His speech will be radiocast throughout western Europe.

Dr. Stresemann will be the only one of the Locarno statesmen to accept the award personally, both Foreign Secretary Chamberlin, of Great Britain, and Foreign Minister Briant, of France, having delegated their respective ministers at Olso to acknowledge the ward in their behalf.

M. Briand shares the 1926 peace prize with Dr. Stresemann, and the 1925 award goes to Sir Austen Chamberlin and Vice President Charles G. Dawes.

LEGION POST MEETS TO PICK COMMANDER

The course to be followed by the Atlanta Post of the American Legion in finding a new executive head to succeed Major Asa Warren Candler, elected last week as state commander, will be decided by the post executive committee in session this afternoon at the Henry Grady hotel.

Whether Commander Candler's election as state department head will require an election for a new post commander or whether the senior vice commander, Frank Kempton, will automatically succeed him for his unexpired term has not been settled.

America Backs Cause of China, States Wheeler

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

BY JOHN POWELL.

Shanghai, June 26.—Officials of the nationalist government of Nanking, including Quo Tai-chi, the commissioner of foreign affairs; C. C. Wu, minister of foreign affairs and prominent members of the kuomintang, including C. T. Wang, former premier, and Wang Chung-Hui, former minister of justice, were hosts tonight of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, democrat, of Montana, and Guy D. Goff, republican, of West Virginia, and Congressman Leonides C. Dyer, of Missouri, and their wives, as well as local American officials.

Senator Wheeler, in a speech, declared the American people feel kindly toward China; they do not want anything in the Far East except China's friendship, and are particularly friendly toward the nationalist movement, hoping that the Chinese will rise to the occasion, unify their country and develop a civilian government.

Congressman Dyer declared President Coolidge's China policy was supported by the American people who hope to see the present revolution result in the establishment of China's sovereignty. He said the United States has always stood between China and the European powers, desirious of China's dismemberment, and will do so again if necessary.

C. C. Wu, foreign minister, responded, saying the nationalist government is not anti-foreign, but against the system which gives the foreigners a superior position to the Chinese in China. He said the nationalists are trying to place China on a plane of equality with the other nations. The nationalists merely are trying to abolish the foreigner's special rights which no nation with self-respect could put up with and when the plane of equality has been achieved, China is ready to cooperate with foreign capital in its development.

VILMA AND ROD, STARS OF SCREEN, ARE WEDDED NOW

Hollywood, Calif., June 26.—(United News.)—Two of the screen's best-known lovers were married here Sunday.

Vilma Banky, born Vilma Konsics in a remote village of Hungary, and who rose to be one of the highest paid and most popular of screen stars, and Rod LaRocque, one of filmdom's best-liked actors, exchanged wedding vows in the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills.

The rank and file of the screen world formed the background for Hollywood's most colorful event of the season.

Supporting, instead of directing Rod LaRocque, was Cecil B. DeMille, noted producer, in the role of best man.

Constance Talmadge, Bebe Daniels, Mildred Davis, Monique LaRocque, Diana Kane and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn were ladies-in-waiting to Miss Banky.

SOVIET PLANNING FOR PREPAREDNESS IN EVENT OF WAR

Moscow, June 26.—(AP)—A campaign is on foot throughout the soviet union for promotion of military preparedness in face of recent developments, which are regarded as threats of war. The period from July 10 to July 17 has been designated as "defense week" toward the success of which all efforts are being directed.

Military sports are being advocated strongly as a means to awaken enthusiasm of youth of the country and heads of unions are exhorting their members to rally around "ossoaviackiet." Russia's greatest voluntary martial organization. The latter is headed by Alexis Likoff and War Commissioner Voroshiloff and its members are said to number millions.

The organization is a combination of the old aviackin with the Society for Defense of the Union, which was devoted to construction of airplanes, development of chemical war preparation and production of gas masks.

At a special conference of the body June 24 provision was made for organization of section military preparedness in every province and district. Special attention is to be given to development of sharpshooters and special courses will be organized for instruction of residents of villages in handling of weapons and adjusting gas masks. Lectures will be arranged for clubs, dormitories and barracks on the theory of national defense.

Mrs. Mollie Ward, Pioneer Teacher At Carrollton, Dies

Carrollton, Ga., June 26.—(Special.) Funeral services were held here this afternoon for Mrs. Mollie Ward, teacher in the Carrollton schools for 38 years, who died at an Atlanta hospital yesterday following an operation. Rev. Irby Henderson, pastor of the First Methodist church of which she was a member, officiated. Mrs. Ward was born April 11, 1869, and in 1885 graduated at the LaGrange Female college with first honors. Soon after this she married John H. Ward, by whom she had one son, Charles Ward, a teacher in the schools of Atlanta.

For some time past she has been superintendent of the first, second and third grades of the primary department of the Methodist Sunday school and for a number of years was superintendent of the junior department of the Methodist Missionary society.

At the close of the public schools in the spring she was presented with a silver loving cup as a token of appreciation for her many years of faithful service.

BERTAUD PLANNING FLIGHT TO ROME

New York, June 26.—(AP)—The Herald-Tribune says Lloyd W. Bertaud, United States air mail pilot, who was cast originally to make the trans-oceanic flight in the Bellanca monoplane guided by Clarence D. Chamberlin, signed a contract last Thursday to fly to Rome and back in a Fokker tri-motored plane.

The contract, which calls for a take-off from Roosevelt field between July 15 and July 25, was made with Bradford Merrill, acting agent for William Randolph Hearst, for which, the Herald-Tribune says, Bertaud will receive at least $100,000.

The plane is now being conditioned at its hangar at Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and will be taken to Roosevelt Field, Long Island, by Bertaud, next week.

ITALY TO OUTLINE POSITION ON SUBS

London, June 26.—(United News.) The Exchange Telegraph's Geneva correspondent has learned that Signor Ruspoli, Italian observer at the three-power naval disarmament conference, has received instructions from Rome to make announcement of Italy's stand on submarines during discussions of that item of defense.

Italy will not accept submarine limitation at anything near the proportions on which the capital ship ratio of 5-5-3 has been worked out, the observer will declare. He also will demand for Italy a submarine squadron considerably greater than that of Japan and at least equal to that of France.

FLIGHT OF BYRD POSTPONED AGAIN

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 26.—(United News.)—The hop-off of Commander Richard E. Byrd's trans-Atlantic flight again was postponed tonight following a weather report which indicated storms off Newfoundland, coupled with strong cross winds and a muddy take-off at Roosevelt field.

No uncertainty marked the postponement of Monday's flight, as had been felt Saturday night and Sunday morning. So adverse were weather conditions that the flight was abandoned shortly before 11 p. m.

Roosevelt field and Wanamaker hangar were practically deserted, following Sunday morning's disappointing fiasco.

Commander Byrd remained at the home of Robert Daniel at Wheatley Hills, where his brother, Thomas Byrd, of Maryland, is staying with him. Others of the crew went to the Garden City hotel and retired for the night.

Harmon Award Given Woman In Los Angeles

New York, June 26.—(AP)—Miss Ethel Richardson, of Los Angeles, assistant superintendent of state public instruction in California, has been awarded $1,000 and a gold medal offered by the Harmon foundation of this city, through the Survey Magazine "to the individual responsible in 1926 for the most distinctive contribution to the social, civic or industrial welfare of the United States.

The announcement, made here today, points out that California is carrying forward the largest project in adult education on this side of the Atlantic, with about 50,000 grown-up students enrolled. Miss Richardson was given the ward as the person chiefly responsible for the success of the undertaking.

William Z. Ripley, professor of economics at Harvard university, won the Harmon-Survey award of $500 and medal offered to "the author of the article making the most distinctive contribution of the year to social or industrial welfare in the United States."

The award to Professor Ripley was made for "From Main Street to Wall Street," published in the Atlantic Monthly of January, 1926, in which he discussed the evils of divorcing management from ownership in industrial and public utility corporations, through the forming of holding companies and the issuing to insiders of shares of common stock which carry the entire control.

Honorable mention and medal were awarded Professor C. E. A. Winslow, of Yale university, for his article, "Public Health at the Crossroads," in the American Journal of Public Health.

OLD LADIES' HOME SERVICES ARE HELD

St. Luke's chapter of the Daughters of the King were sponsors for the service held Sunday afternoon at the Home for Old Ladies on West End avenue, by the Rev. Stephen F. Reade, lately rector of St. Andrew's church, Fort Pierce, Fla., but now retired.

The Rev. Mr. Reade spoke on the theme of the future life, using as his text the favorite passage from Revelations, "There shall be no light there."

Music was furnished by members of St. Luke's choir and was much enjoyed by the inmates of the home.

Leon Trotsky, Red Organizer, Is In Disfavor

Moscow, June 26.—Soviet Russian leaders Sunday turned their attention to their own ranks in a further move to eliminate discord throughout the country.

Leon Trotsky, organized of the red army, and Gregory Zinoviev, both of them members of the prefidium, were recommended for expulsion from the central committee of the communist party by the central control committee, which is the party's disciplinary body.

"Complete violation of their obligation to cease factional work" was cited as reason for the recommendation of expulsion. It must be approved by the combined organization of the central committee and the central control committee and confirmed by the party congress which is expected to meet in November.

The recommendation of expulsion cited frequent efforts by the two prominent Russian leaders to oppose party principles.

"For four years," it declared, "the party has shown the greatest patience and forbearance in this matter and has warned the two men repeatedly. Opposition workers, led by Trotsky and Zinoviev, have used every difficulty facing socialist development to strike against party unity.

"Lately the opposition group has concentrated its attack on the soviet's internal situation and the partial defeat of the Chinese revolution. Their reply to the growing war peril was a declaration breaking down the party's work for mobilization of the masses against war and strengthening defenses against it."

Trotsky and Zinoviev have been prominent in the revolutionist regime of Russia since long before the present government was established. Trotsky, by his work in organizing the army and assisting in formation of government departments, early became one of the best known figures in the country. Zinoviev has been a member of the central committee of the communist party since 1917.

Negro, 16, Says He Slew Woman At York, S. C.

Columbia, S. C., June 26.—(AP)—A confession that he murdered Mrs. Frances Thomasson, 78-year-old woman of Filbert, near York, yesterday afternoon was made here today by William McKinley Thomasson, 16, negro, who was brought to the penitentiary following his arrest in York county early today.

Mrs. Thomasson, whose husband, Thomas J. Thomasson, was absent from home yesterday, was found dead with her throat cut in her home at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Frank Biggers and Paulee, his wife, negro tenants on the Thomasson place, testified that they had seen McKinley Thomasson approach the white woman's home after ascertaining that her husband was absent.

The prisoner was brought to the penitentiary about 10:30 o'clock this morning by Sheriff F. E. Quinn, of York county, and a deputy.

GOD GIVES GUIDE BACK TO DECENCY, DECLARES RANGE

Staff Captain W. H. Range, of the Salvation Army, preaching at the regular Sunday services at the army's industrial home here, urged the inmates of the institution to follow the guide-posts given by God to man as the only sure road back to self-respect and independence.

"Men have no right to blame God for their own mistakes, on the excuse that He made them as they are," Captain Range declared. "God has shown men what is good through His written commandments, through the example set by men who follow them, by His own example in the life of Christ and by the unsleeping voice of conscience that warns every man against every wrong act."

TOWN IN OREGON BADLY DAMAGED BY CLOUDBURST

Portland, Ore., June 25.—(AP)—A cloudburst which struck six miles up the canyon from Arlington, Ore., came near washing out that town at 5:30 p. m. today. The wall of water, rushing down the gorge, was sighted a few moments before it reached the city. All possible warning was given and as far as could be determined early tonight no lives were lost.

The flood swirled down Main treet and this and most of the other streets became roaring torrents. Residents raced from their homes to the high hills on either side of town. Debris of all kinds was borne along by the rushing water.

Automobiles left in the streets were washed away, and many residences met the same fate.

No estimate of the damage could be made tonight.

LEADER OF SIOUX TO MAKE COOLIDGE CHIEF OF TRIBE

Rapid City, S. D., June 26.—President Coolidge will be made chief in the Sioux Indian tribe at Deadwood August 11, it was learned today.

The head dress of eagle feathers is to be placed on his head in ceremonies to be witnessed by 200 chiefs, direct descendants of the warriors who defended the Black Hills with bows and arrows. The ceremony will be conducted by Chief Yellow Robe.

Bodily Resurrection Of Christ Defended By Bishop Candler

Lake Junaluska, N. C., June 26.—(AP)—Defending the bodily resurrection of Christ as the most important and best attested fact of the Christian religion, Bishop Warren A. Candler, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, today ridiculed theories of higher critics and others who dispute the physical resurrections.

Speaking on the subject, "The Third Day He Arose From the Dead," at the concluding session of a four-day meeting of Methodist laymen from the Carolinas, Bishop Candler, in good natured phrases took "unbelievers" in the resurrection to task and suggested they familiarize themselves further with the New Testament.

The address of Bishop Candler followed that of ex-Governor Thomas G. McLeod, of South Carolina, in which the laity was extolled as one of the most powerful factors of the church. He depicted the lay forces as representatives of the people charged with responsibility of utilizing the inventions, discoveries and the new knowledge of the arts and sciences to serve the present generation through the field of the church.

FOUR OKLAHOMA BATHERS DROWNED; ONE IS WOMAN

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 26.—(AP) Four persons were drowned in Oklahoma today.

The dead:

Joe Wagner, 17, Oklahoma City.

Gus Catozzi, 12, Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Ralph O'Naan, 21, Elreno.

Joseph Spellman, 35, Pawnee.

Wagner and Catozzti, of the St. Joseph's orphanage here, were drowned in the Canadian river while swimming. Mrs. O'Naan was drowned in an Elreno swimming pool.

Spellman, an expert swimmer, was drowned in Lake Stillwater, it was believed from cramps.

RAIL DIVIDENDS TO BE INCREASED

New York, June 26.—Since New York Central unexpectedly increased its annual dividend from 7 to 8 per cent with rumors being widely circulated throughout Wall street that Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific and other railroads are going to increase their dividends, some people are beginning to ask how much further the movement on the part of the railroads to declare larger dividends can go without making trouble for the carriers themselves. The list of railroads increasing dividends the past year is a long one. According to Wall street gossip, before the end of 1927 it will be longer. Will this mean trouble for the carriers?

It has been a long time since the last movement of a general upward trend in railway dividends, 20 years. Since then conditions in many directions have changed. If trouble is to come to the carriers, however, from paying larger dividends it will come from the same sources as in the past, labor demanding higher wages and farmer demanding lower freight rates.

Fortunately for the railroads, less is being heard today than in many a long day regarding the need of relief for the farmer. This is due to the readjustment in commodity prices recently going on in favor of the farmer whereby the prices the agricultural sections pay for the things they buy have been steadily declining while at the same time prices have been advancing for farm products. With wheat, corn, cotton, oats, rye and other farm products now showing a substantial increase in selling prices compared with the low of this year and last year the farmer is less likely to demand a reduction in the frenght rates on the things he ships and buys.

Freight Rates.

If the selling price of farm products had continued to decline it must be admitted that the farmer could have made out a strong case in his demands for a reduction in freight rates. The same, however, cannot be said in the case of labor. Ten years ago, after paying operating expenses which include maintenance of roadbed and equipment and wages, the railroads of the country as a whole reported net operating income of $1,040,000,000 in round figures to meet interest payments and dividends. For 1926 the net operating income of these same railroads was $1,213,000,000.

This is an increase in net operating income for ten years of 16 per cent.

For this same 10-year period the number of men employed by the railroads increased from 1,647,000 to 1,805,000, with the average yearly pay of each man increasing from $891 to $1,656.

While the net operating income of the railroads was increasing 16 per cent in ten years the average pay of employees was increasing 86 per cent, despite the fact that net operating income of the railroads dropped from $1,040,000,000 to a bare $17,226,000 in 1920 before it began to recover to the $1,213,000,000 reported for 1926.

For 1916 the taxes paid by the railroads was $157,000,000. For 1926 it was $388,000,000. This is an increase of nearly 150 per cent.

Dividends.

For 1916 the dividends paid to shareholders amounted to $306,000,000. For 1926 dividend payments amounted to $388,000,000.

Thus while the net operating income of the railroads over a 10-year period increased 16 per cent, the average pay for each employee increased 86 per cent with taxes increasing nearly 150 per cent and dividend payments to shareholders increasing only 25 per cent.

Since 1920 hundreds and hundreds of millions of dollars have been plowed back into the railroads for improvements and betterments. During this period railroad labor has been treated fairly in the matter of wage increase. The same is not true of the holder of railroad stocks.

For 1926 the average dividend paid by the dividend paying railroads was 6.5 per cent. A large part of the outstanding $9,413,000,000 railroad stock, however, received no dividend. The average dividend paid last year on the total amount of outstanding $9,413,000,000 railroad stocks was only 4.6 per cent.

The total capitalization of the railroads, according to the latest available figures was $20,734,000,000. This included $12,320,000,000 bonds and $9,413,000,000 stock. When properly capitalized the railroads have half of their outstanding indebtedness in bonds bearing fixed interest charges and half in stock. If the railroad capitalization is top heavy with bonded debt in lean years when interest cannot be earned on bonded debt it means receivership with loss through reorganization to both bond and stockholders. If there is a proper balance between outstanding bonds and stock in lean years the railroads can temporarily reduce dividend payments.

Railroad Stocks.

In recent years the railroads have been unable to sell stock, the state laws requiring that stock cannot be sold for less than its par value which is in most cases $100. The railroads have not been able to sell stock because the outstanding shares were not selling in the open market to justify such financing.

One way to get the open market value of outstanding railroad stock at a level where new stock may be sold is to increase dividends when warranted by earnings. For the past few years the earning power of many railroads has warranted the payment of larger dividends. Larger dividends have been paid in justice to the shareholders and also for the purpose of permitting financing to be done through the sale of stock instead of bonds.

Only recently railroad wages in some directions have been increased again to the extent of many millions of dollars with applications now pending for other increases. It is possible that when congress meets there may be some demands made for a reduction in freight rates. In common justice, however, to railroad shareholders and also in the interests of the shipping and traveling public there should be no further increases in wages or reduction in freight rates that will prevent the holders of railroad stocks from getting larger dividends on the average than are now being received.

Airedale Rescues Four Boys

:: HIS MASTER DIES IN EARTHEN TOMB ::

From Creek Bank Cave-In

Brampton, Ont., June 26.—(United News.)—Rover, a stubby-tailed and stout-hearted Airedale, saved the lives of four boys but was unable to rescue his young master when the cave-in of a creek bank buried the five boys and the dog.

They were playing on Fletcher's creek, near the town, when the bank collapsed, covering them with dirt and gravel.

Rover worked his way lose and tore frantically into the dirt with his forepaws, as he used to do when hunting rabbits with Fred Warr, 12, his owner.

The dog managed to scoop away enough of the dirt to allow the boys air. Meanwhile Norman Cook, one of the boys, wriggled clear. He ran to town and aroused the people.

When men arrived at the scene Rover, exhausted by his efforts, was on the ground, unable to move.

The men dug away the pile and took out the boys, but Warr was dead. The others and the Airedale were revived after about an hour's work.

"Conditions in China" As Told

: Mrs. V. P. Patterson Gives Timely Opinions On Conditions :

By Member of Trinity Church

BY LAMAR SPARKS.

"The nationalists want a China with which the nations of the world can deal."

Mrs. V. P. Patterson

opinion of Mrs. Vivian Pierce Patterson, wife of Dr. V. P. Patterson, medical missionary to China, stationed at Soochow, is the actuating force of the nationalists movement, which in spite of Russian aid, is working for a China that is worthy of the name. Mrs Patterson, after a short stay in the city, goes to make her home for the summer with the Rev. and Mrs. E C. Wilson, of Warrenton.

"The situation in China today is hard to understand, requiring a sympathy for the Chinese people and a knowledge of past politics which alone can afford the proper perspective and background for the situation. A forecast of the outcome is impossible. But, if America and those nations whose influence will count in the present crisis, will only let China work this thing out for herself the world shall see a new China and a reunited people."

Married Three Years.

Little more than three years ago Mrs. Patterson was married, sailing 12 months later as the wife of a medical missionary to a land where cholera must be coped with and superstition cured with little more preparation than a course at the Georgia Baptist hospital training school, and a courage that found expression in two long years of teaching at the little school of Tsuang Hua. As she spoke recently of conditions in China, there was unmistakable evidence in a pair of dark eyes of that understanding that is hammered out through contact and consideration upon the anvil of the world.

Mrs. Patterson is just a girl, one with the good will of all who have known here since she went out from Trinity church in Atlanta to that group of Chinese lassies near Shanghai. She is gracious, she has charm, and there is something quite assuring in the way she tells you "the Chinese call us friend."

"Of course in China now there are a great many irregularities. Following a recent report that the nationalists were unfriendly, the consul general in Shanghai advised Americans to send a trunk to Shanghai and to list all of our belongings. For a while we were cut off from all trains and mails. In both the northern and southern armies desertion is frequent and looting, of course, follows in consequence.

"But the Chinese, with whom we came in contact, were friendly. Just before we sailed in April, while in Shanghai, we were addressed by Chinese soldiers.

"'Who are you?' they asked.

"'Americans,' was the reply.

"'Oh, you are our friends.'

"This feeling I have found is prevalent in every sense in the little mission school at Tsuang Hua, where I taught for two years, and I am sure that, with few exceptions which are the result, we believe, of Russian influence, the same holds true elsewhere. In speaking of the inconveniences with which we had to contend we often heard them remark, 'This is war; you must be patient with us.'

"If the nationalists, under General Chiang, win out in this struggle in which it is generally conceded that they have the interest of China at heart, we shall see a China which is capable of taking its place among the nations of the world, one which can make equal treaties with other nations, can levy taxes; one enlarged by the return of its foreign concessions; and a China in which continual strife between military governors has become a thing of the past.

"China must solve her own problems. The southern army, under General Chiang, and the northern army under the continuously contending Generals Wu Pei Fu, Sung Chaung Fang, Chang Tso Lin, and Chang Chung Chang, must fight the thing out to its logical conclusion.

Nationalist Movement.

The nationalist movement, Mrs. Patterson will tell you, has spread from Canton to Pekin, carrying on the program of its prime mover, Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, whose revolutionary tendencies and western education proved the inspiration of the revolution of 1911, making way for President Yuan Shi-Kai, under whose power China split into its two natural and hostile divisions of north and south.

"This influence of the west, so apparent in the life of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, is responsible, if any one cause can be said to be responsible, for the present situation in China. Since the 1911 revolution set a fashion of westernization, thousands of young Chinese have crossed the Pacific to American universities. Returning with the consciousness that China has not equal footing with the nations of the world, the influence of these westernized Chinese is undoubtedly today finding expression in warfare that, in the best sense of the word, has as its ultimate aim the establishment of a China with which the nations of the world can deal."

As she returns to Atlanta to renew old acquaintances and revisit the church in whose activities she played so large a part, Atlanta and Georgia claim Mrs. Patterson as their own. Although born in Scottsville, Ky., she spent a great part of her life in this state, having been graduated in 1922 from Brenau college, Gainesville, and later completing a course of training at the Georgia Baptist hospital here Upon returning from Shanghai she landed in this country May 13. She will be a guest in the city until Wednesday.

Phi Mu Convention Opens Today at Macon; Many Delegates Arrive

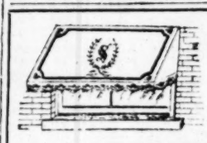

Macon, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—The national convention of the Phi Mu sorority, which opens here Monday, brought delegates to this city tonight on special cars from more than 50 cities.

The convention will meet at Wesleyan college, where the society was formed 75 years ago.

During the convention, which will last a week, a monument will be unveiled to Martha Hardaway Redding, one of the founders, and a pageant will be staged on the greater Wesleyan college site, with 250 performers.

There are many social events planned in connection with the convention.

Self-Defense Is Plea Of Man Who Surrenders In Killing at Columbus

Columbus, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—Dock W. Foster, proprietor of a local barber shop, this afternoon was shot and instantly killed by Fred Bowen, local loom fixer. The killing occurred on the Alabama side of the Chattahoochie river, about seven miles from the city. Bowen surrendered to Columbus authorities and was later taken to the Seale, Ala., jail where he is held on a murder charge.

According to the statement made by Bowen at the time he surrendered the shooting was done in self-defense as Foster was advancing on him with a knife. Foster's wife said to have been present, is quoted as having stated that Foster was shot without provocation as he sat at the wheel of his automobile. According to reports the men had engaged in an affray earlier in the day.
